Ulster's Old Doctors Recall Days of Youth

County Medical Society Gives Dinner in Honor of Doctors Who Have Practiced For 50 Years or More, and Hear Some Snappy Reminiscences of the Old Days Told By the Five Guests of Honor Present at the Event.

Thursday evening was Old Doctors' Night at the new Governor Clinton Hotel. The Old Doctors enjoyed seeing and hearing the Old Doctors enjoy themselves. The event was a testimonial dinner given by the Ulster County Medical Society, itself 120 years old, to the seven physicians of Ulster county who have practiced medicine for 50 years or more. After the dinner and a brief introduction by the president of the society, Dr. Mary Gage-Day, Dr. E. H. Loughran made the opening address as toastmaster and the other guests were called on for reminiscences. There was history, anecdote, experience and snappy stories enough to fill a book at least as big as a medical dictionary. The Old Doctors enjoyed the telling and the young doctors enjoyed listening to what amounted to a first hand account of the progress made in the last 60 years, not only in medicine and surgery but in human relations in general.

When the Old Doctors were young doctors there was neither automobile, telephone or good road and as they all started in without capital, they walked and were thankful to be called in by a paying patient that they could walk to. When they had earned and saved money enough, they bought a horse and buggy or buckboard and rode in what then was ease and luxury. When the Old Doctors got their education they got a lot of theory and verbal instruction but nothing of the actual demonstration given in the clinic of today. They were turned loose to do things that they had never seen, all about but had never seen done. They recalled these days and the progress made, predicted greater progress and were about the happiest and most optimistic party one could find anywhere.

The Guests of Honor.

The seven guests of honor, none much under 80 years of age, were: Dr. J. R. Nelson, Kingston; Dr. A. P. Chalker, Kingston; Dr. Henry Van Hovenberg, Kingston; Dr. E. H. Loughran, Kingston; Dr. George C. Basten, Kingston; Dr. B. F. Neal, Ellenville; Dr. R. Crawford, Saugerties. Dr. Basten and Dr. Neal were not present.

Smallpox Epidemic 34 Years Ago.

Dr. Loughran on assuming the duties of toastmaster spoke of the kind way in which he and his associates were being notified that they were passing on. Just growing old gives distinction, although we have to work hard and strive for it a long time.

Dr. Loughran was admitted to membership in the society May 5, 1873. Dr. George C. Basten being then the secretary. Reminiscences of the smallpox epidemic of 1872, when smallpox was brought to the city by boatmen on the Delaware and Hudson canal and a quarantine station was established at Edenville, were given by Dr. Loughran. Dr. Basten was the inspecting physician at the Edenville quarantine and nobody got by him without satisfactorily passing an examination. Despite this there were many cases in Kingston and after attending smallpox cases for five months, Dr. Loughran contracted the disease and was quarantined in the best house in Lindesley's woods with a lot of white and colored folks, where, according to his opinion now, they "had a bully time."

Old Time Socialism.

Fifty years ago, Dr. Loughran said, the medical society held very enjoyable and prolonged meetings in the back room of Balthasar Schwalbach's saloon which stood on the present site of the Y. M. C. A. building on Broadway. Another meeting place much favored by doctors, so much so that there was lettered over the door a sign, "The Doctors' Office" was near the corner of Fair and Henry streets and emergency calls for doctors made at this place. Dr. Schwalbach's saloon if ever missed finding one or more doctors in.

Advance in 30 Years.

In more serious vein, Dr. Loughran referred to the advance in medicine and surgery in the last 50 years, the more thorough methods of teaching and the general progress of society. In conclusion he called on Dr. Holcomb, chairman of the committee in charge of the dinner, for a few words.

Supper to Younger Men.

Dr. Holcomb declined all credit and said the idea of the dinner had originated with Dr. Gages. The committee was very happy over the result and hoped that the evening when where honor the dinner was given, would be with the society for many more years. They were an inspiration to the younger men.

When Jim Fiske Was Shot.

Dr. Crawford, introduced as "a real family doctor," graduated from Bellevue in 1875, said he thanked the Lord he had been permitted to live to attend this meeting and hoped the society would continue to prosper. He related experiences with Dr. James R. Wood, the great New York surgeon of 50 years ago. Illustrating progress in the last 50 years, Dr. Crawford related that when Jim Fiske was shot Dr. Wood attended him and failing to locate the bullet with a probe, used his finger. At the trial of Stokes, who did the shooting, it was contended by the defense that as it was an established fact that it was death to enter the abdominal cavity, Dr. Wood had committed a crime and was the real murderer. But for Dr. Wood's political influence, he might have been placed on trial for murder.

Dr. Chalker's Welcome.

Dr. A. P. Chalker, graduated from Hahnemann College in 1870, was next. Before he began practice Dr. Chalker, a native of Camden, N. J., visited Overlook Mountain House with a party of young folks and was so impressed that when in search of a place to "hang out his shingle" he sought to locate near the Catskills. So he came to Rondout and took a room in the Mansion House. During the night he heard an uproar outside, went to the window to see what was going on and got there just in time to have a brick laid against the window frame alongside his head. He went away from there and back to bed, undisturbed. Next morning he found the janitor with a mop, bucket and clothes basket, clearing up the sidewalk and on inquiry was casually informed that "the boys had a little scrap." In the clothes basket were collars, neckties, vests, caps, part of a coat sleeve and fragments of other garments which had been picked up by the janitor before mopping the blood off the sidewalk.

No Place Like Rondout.

Dr. Chalker left Rondout that day in search of more pacific surroundings. After investigating a Pennsylvania town and a Brooklyn suburb he came back to Rondout and after investigating Saugerties without result, remained here. When, after tramping the roads in making calls on patients, he was able to buy a horse, harness, buggy and entire outfit for $150 he thought he had fallen into real luxury. Entertaining anecdotes of experiences with patients were given in considerable number, including the description of the doctor in Kingston who had a large boy on the rear of his buckboard in which to carry poultry, pigs, etc., which he collected in lieu of cash fees.

Men of High Character.

Dr. Henry Van Hovenberg, graduated from Bellevue in 1872, spoke of the high character of the men of the profession in Ulster county and recalled the names of many of them: Hahnbrock, McKenzie, Elting, Wales, Hubner, Douglas, Crispell, Smith, Van Rensselaer, Davis, Dawes, and many others. Dr. Van Hovenberg's father and grandfather were physicians practicing here. His father was the first doctor in Kingston to administer chloroform. His grandfather was a surgeon in the War of 1812. The present Dr. Van Hovenberg has had four patients for whom his father and grandfather had been family physician. He closed his remarks with an expression of the hope that the society might collect a complete record of the doctors that have practiced in Ulster county.

Looking Past With Present.

Dr. J. R. Nelson, the last speaker, said he was a link, not a missing link, between the past and the present. His father and uncle were doctors. His mother read her daily chapter in the original Greek and his grandfather was a clergyman, so had grown up in an atmosphere of theology and medicine. Dr. Nelson related numerous interesting experiences. "On this anniversary of our antiquity, we, your guests, wish for all of you that you may reach the day we have reached," was the toastmaster's concluding expression.

The Toast.

The toast to the guests of honor "A long life full of happiness," proposed by Dr. Stern and drunk standing, in Volsteadian liquid, concluded the program and at midnight's bold hour—and then some—the gathering dispersed.

The committee in charge of the arrangements for the dinner was composed of Dr. F. W. Holcomb, Dr. E. C. Crispell, Dr. A. C. Gates and Dr. E. H. Voss.

Proceeding the dinner a business meeting was held at which Dr. W. F. Van Wageningen of Lake Umbagog, Dr. W. S. Bush of Arden and Dr. J. C. Gross of Phoenicia were elected.

CARROLL WILL NOT SERVE UNTIL AROUND CHRISTMAS

New York, June 4.—Earl Carroll, Broadway theatrical producer, will not go to Atlanta to serve his jail sentence until some time around next Christmas. If, then, in the opinion of lawyers today, Carroll was sentenced to one year and one day in prison and fined $2,000 by Federal Judge Goddard yesterday for perjury before the Federal grand jury which investigated the alleged serving of liquor at Carroll's "bath tub party" at his theatre on February 22.

Carroll's lawyer is to take the producer's appeal to the circuit court at the beginning of its term in October. It is regarded as likely that when the October term begins press of business will be so heavy that Carroll's case will not be reached until November. Then there is the customary lapse of about a month between argument and the decision of the court. Further legal technicalities may be interposed that would mean the case would not be finally settled until about Christmas.

The basis of appeal is the issue of the materiality of the presence of Miss Joyce Hawley, former artists' model, in a bath tub during the party. It was the contention of Carroll's attorney that such a fact had no bearing on the question of whether or not liquor was served at the party.

WINNERS IN NATIONAL MOVIE MUSIC CONTEST

Atlantic City, N. J., June 4.—Sylvia Hortler, 15, of Arlington, Mass., is the champion music memorizer of America. Out of a large field of contestants, Sylvia won first prize and was crowned queen of music in the National Movie Music Contest held under the direction of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, in convention here.

The contest was conducted with the cooperation of The Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, Inc. In her essay on "How the Motion Picture Theatre Increased My Love of Music," Sylvia said:

"The most popular movies of the last few years have been of such a fine type that they have demanded a higher quality of music. May the years that are to follow bring even greater cooperation of good movies and good music until the great public has an increased love of music, having obtained that love through motion pictures."

Children from Mississippi, Massachusetts, Illinois, North Carolina, South Carolina, New Jersey, Kentucky, Indiana and New York competed in the contest. Women were entered from forty-eight states.

Mrs. E. W. DeCamp, a delegate from Lexington, Ky., won the first prize for adults.

Warner, of Rochester, Superintendent of the State Police, which will take place tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock in the Cathedral of the Immaculate Conception.

Fifteen hundred guests, including statesmen, social leaders and political leaders, have been invited to witness the ceremony at the cathedral. Upwards of 1,000 guests will be served a wedding breakfast, at the executive mansion.

In the marriage license Miss Smith gave her age as 21, and Major Warner as 39. So many presents have been received by the bride couple that one entire room at the mansion has been given over to display the gifts. Seventeen electric lamps of different types and a dozen different clocks have been received.

Old friends of the Smith family in Oliver street, New York city sent the couple great quantities of valuable linen.

Major Warner's gift to his bride will be a string of pearls.

Firemen Injured In Lowell Fire

Million Dollar Fire At Lowell Destroyed A. G. Pollard Department Store and Masonic Temple—Five Firemen and Soldier Injured.

Lowell, Mass., June 4.—Probers from the State Fire Marshal's office today started an investigation into the causes of the fire which destroyed the department store of A. G. Pollard Company and the adjoining Masonic Temple and threatened the business district. Before Lowell, Lawrence, Dracut, Billrica, Chelmsford and Tewksbury firemen had the flames under control more than $1,000,000 damage had been done.

Four Lowell firemen, a Lawrence fireman and an army recruiting sergeant were injured during the progress of the blaze.

The fire was discovered in the basement of the Pollard store. The cause is unknown. From the department store the flames after some time spread to the Masonic Temple. Twelve other buildings in the vicinity were damaged by fire and water. A high wind was blowing and the flames were fanned. Fire brands started three other fires.

State Fire Marshal George C. Neal stated that the Pollard store was equipped with sprinklers but that he recommended the sprinklers and other safety devices for the entire fire hazard district of this city. However, he stated nothing was done. Bills introduced into the Legislature making fire prevention compulsory were turned down, said Mr. Neal.

Fortunately, the 300 employees of the department store were on a half holiday when the fire broke out.

HOLD WOMAN FOR FIFTH AVENUE GEM THEFTS

New York, June 4.—Mrs. Mildred Dervoe, thirty-seven, wife of a Brooklyn accountant, is in custody today, suspected of having obtained about $100,000 in jewelry from Fifth Avenue establishments in the last five years.

She was to be arraigned this afternoon. Before this is done, however, she will be placed in the line-up at police headquarters in order to allow jewelers an opportunity to identify her, if they can, as the woman who stole gems from their establishments.

Mrs. Dervoe, refined in manner and modestly dressed, denied all knowledge of the thefts. She said the $300,000 worth of jewels found in her bag at the time of her arrest were bought by her, mostly from pawnshops.

She was arrested as she stepped from the Ritz-Carlton Hotel, where she had been trailed by detectives.

Werner Dervoe, the woman's husband, stands staunchly back of her, declaring she is innocent of the charges.

New Plans for Railroad Merger

Van Sweringens Will Submit Revised Unification Plan To Commission—Will Get Approval of Minority Interests In Roads To Be Merged.

Washington, June 4.—Undaunted by their failure to secure federal approval of their billion-dollar merger, O. P. and M. J. Van Sweringens, former Cleveland newsmen, are preparing to submit a revised unification plan to the Interstate Commerce Commission, it was learned today.

According to reports reaching Washington, the Van Sweringens have practically completed their new plan, which involves the merger of the Chesapeake & Ohio, Pere Marquette, Erie, and Hoekling Valley with the Nickel Plate System, along lines that will remove the objections that were raised against the former proposed unification. It is understood the new plan will be submitted to the commission this month.

Before that action is taken sponsors for the gigantic merger intend to get the approval of the important minority interests in the roads to be merged. It is understood these interests will be approached within a week or so and the new plan is said to be so worked out that the minority interests will agree to turn over their holdings for Nickel Plate securities.

One report circulating about the commission's office is that the revised plan will contain no change in the ratios provided for exchanging shares of the roads involved with those of the Nickel Plate, but that a method has been devised to obviate interlocking directorates. A further change, it is said, will give preferred stockholders the right to vote.

Still another report indicates the Chesapeake & Ohio and the Erie stockholders will receive better treatment than under the old plan of the Van Sweringens.

Members of the Interstate Commerce Commission, although interested in the report that the Van Sweringens would try again to win their approval of one of the greatest railroad mergers in modern time, declined to comment.

The commission in refusing to approve the old merger plan, said it was clear the proposed unification was a step "along the right lines in carrying out the policy of congress of encouraging the formation of a limited number of systems."

Regarding the financial plan of the Van Sweringens in bringing about the merger, the commission said it could not "escape the conclusion the plan was arranged with the intention of keeping control in the hands of its proponents, even though their interest is a minority one in fact."

It held that such an arrangement was not in accord with sound railroad practice, and asserted that the public interest required that the entire body of stockholders shall be responsible for a railroad's management.

"This can be done only by giving them the power to control the management," the commission said.

If the new plan has overcome these obstacles it has more than an even chance of being approved by the commission, it was said.

Worcester, Mass., June 4.—When a trap to catch liquor raiders was sprung in the chemical laboratory of Clark University early today two young students were captured carrying an empty gallon can. The police allege they were headed straight for the stock of alcohol.

Congressman Fish Talks Good Roads And Congress

Tells Kingston Kiwanians He Favors Construction of Forty Foot Wide Concrete Road on West Bank of Hudson—Kingston Student Prefers West Point to Harvard.

Congressman Hamilton Fish, Jr., of the Twenty-sixth Congressional District which comprises the counties of Dutchess, Orange and Putnam, was the speaker at the weekly luncheon of the Kingston Kiwanis Club at the Y. M. C. A. on Thursday, and gave an interesting address on the work done by Congress and stated that he favored a bond issue for the construction of a forty foot wide concrete road between New York and Albany on the west bank of the Hudson river. He also favored a tax on gasoline, and said New York was one of the low states that did not have such a tax.

County Judge Joseph M. Fowler introduced Congressman Fish who in opening said he believed that there should be better cooperation between the cities and towns in the Hudson river valley, and that he was willing to do what he could to bring about such cooperation. He called attention to the fact that General Davis, head of the New York Military Academy at Cornwall, had asked him to appoint Edwin Messinger of Kingston to West Point, but as he would not have any vacancies for several years he had so far been unable to comply with the request. He said General Davis had told him that Messinger was the best all around soldier who had attended the Cornwall school in the past thirty years and was a fine specimen of young American manhood.

Prefers West Point to Harvard.

Congressman Fish said he was a graduate of Harvard and while at college was a member of the football team and was still deeply interested in college athletics. For that reason, if none other, he had made arrangements to give young Messinger a scholarship at Harvard, but found that the young man preferred West Point to Harvard, and he did not know as he could blame him.

"My only regret as an old football man," said Congressman Fish, "is that we can't get him. He said that some people did not believe in athletics but he was captain of Harvard football team in 1918 and they had not lost a game that season. He had recently checked up on the members of the 1918 football team and found that not a man on that team but today was obtaining a lower salary than $15,000 a year while some of them were receiving a salary of $100,000."

Congressman Fish said he had never met young Messinger but if it were possible in the future he would try to get him an appointment to West Point and to that end would work with Congressman Pratt of this district. He then spoke briefly of Congressman Pratt, stating that while Mr. Pratt was no orator he was always on the job and was a high type of business man.

The Edwin Messinger to whom Congressman Fish referred is a graduate of Kingston high school and a son of Jacob Messinger of West Union street, who is employed at the Rufft plant. During the holiday rush at the post office in Kingston, young Messinger was employed by Postmaster Walter P. Crane to assist in the work.

How Congress Stands Comparison.

"You business men probably have a low opinion of Congress," said Congressman Fish, "which is a very sad thing because it is erroneous. I can say that because I have no axe to grind. We get our opinion of Congress from our public press, and it is a great national sport to criticize Congress, but I tell you men that I have never been associated with a higher type of man than the members of congress."

"For honesty and for integrity they compare favorably with any professional group in this country or in the world. I have never heard during my six years in Congress of any money being passed to assist any legislation, and I have found that the average of ability in Congress is extremely high, and I believe it is my patriotic duty to tell you so."

Congressman Fish said that the general poor opinion of Congress was obtained through the public press which was represented at Washington by hundreds of young newspaper men who went there to get news and feed it to the public. Naturally these men were anxious to read only front page stuff to their papers, and he did not know as he could blame them for that. The difficulty, however, was that they would feature only that stuff which was sure to be used, and if an important debate was under way on the house they would not have a line about it in the papers.

"We instance to you business men," said Congressman Fish, "is that we have got the fairest, soundest and safest government in all the world. I want you men to appreciate that fact."

Congressman Fish called attention to the fact that when the question of the soldier bonus came up before Congress, the business interests of New York were bitterly opposed to it. "Why?" he asked. "Because they read in the New York newspapers malicious, false information to the effect that if the bonus was enacted it would increase the tax rate and there would be no reduction in twenty years that the government would have bankrupted. Congress knew what would happen if the bonus bill was adopted at that time."

WOMAN WANDERS 600 MILES AS HER MEMORY FAILS

Goes Shopping in Coffeyville, Kan., Comes To in Texas City.

Fort Worth, Texas.—A few days ago Mrs. Thelma Bachelder, age twenty-seven, was walking through the business section of Coffeyville, Kan., on some shopping errand. The next thing she knew, according to her story to the police, she found herself in the Fort Worth union station, with the incidents of two days entirely gone from her memory.

Old Story Refuted.

It was an old story to the police here, but heretofore there always had been an explanation, a wild party, intoxication, attempt to escape household drudgery, another man. But Mrs. Bachelder was not one of these types and was living happily with her husband and four children at Coffeyville, where her husband, R. N. Bachelder, is a railway employee.

The woman looked officers straight in the eye, told the same story without a break and they wired for her husband, who came to Fort Worth next day for her.

Bachelder was as much mystified as the police. He insisted there was nothing wrong with his wife, that she was home-loving, devoted to him, had never expressed a desire to leave and that she had never suffered from mental aberration.

Losses $40 From Purse.

"I cannot recall one thing since I was walking down the street in Coffeyville until I suddenly seemed to awaken and saw that I was in a railroad station," Mrs. Bachelder said. "I could not recognize any one, saw that it was not the Coffeyville station and began to worry. I sought to return home and wondered if it would be late. Imagine my surprise when I learned I was in Fort Worth, 600 miles away and that the $40 I had with me was gone. If I was robbed, doped and put on a train I knew nothing of it. I don't recall getting on or off a train. There was only one thing I could do and I did it. I went to the police station for help."

When Bachelder reached Fort Worth he and his wife embraced when they met in the police station and he comforted her by saying "not to mind. Forget it."

Back Broken 14 Years, Weds Old Sweetheart

Harleton, Pa.—Carried into the church at Trevorton, near Shamokin, Ben Braubitz, for fourteen years an invalid with a broken back, was wedded to Miss Anna Bordell, also of Trevorton.

Braubitz sat in the chair while the ceremony was performed and then was carried to the street again. He wheeled himself to his home where friends gathered to celebrate the marriage.

Braubitz was caught beneath a fall of coal years ago. Not long before the accident he became engaged to Miss Bordell. The wedding was postponed while Braubitz remained home with his mother. She died recently and then wedding plans were renewed.

Through War Unscathed, Killed by a Mosquito

London.—Another ironic case of a man going unscathed through the whole world war and dying of a seemingly insignificant happening has been revealed in the death of Major Terence.

Only thirty-three years old, wealthy, married to the daughter of an English ambassador, he seemed one of the most fortunate young men in England.

He had gone through the war without the slightest wound. A few weeks ago he was bitten on the leg by a mosquito. Blood poisoning set in, and within a few days he was dead.

Spurns $175,000

for Man of Choice

Cleveland, Ohio.—Mary Kasnic, nineteen years old, grocery clerk, made known her decision to spurn a fortune of $175,000 so she could marry the man of her choice.

In a will left by her uncle, who lived near Omaha, Neb., Miss Kasnic was bequeathed the money on condition that she marry Frank Doelmar, twenty-eight years old, of Omaha. She has two years to make up her mind.

The will further provides that if Miss Kasnic refuses to marry Doelmar the $175,000 will go to him.

"I don't love Frank," Mary said. "I am in love with a young Cleveland man and all the money in the world doesn't tempt me."

FIRE MAN'S HOME TO SMOKE HIM OUT

Burned to Death After Fight With Posses.

Fayetteville, Ga.—Clint Brown, sixty, a bachelor farmer, was burned to death in his home when officers set fire to the dwelling to "smoke him out."

Brown barricaded himself in his house after officers had tried to arrest him and had been repulsed when Brown fired on them.

Brown was sought in connection with the slaying of Rich Nealey, negro, whose shot-riddled body was found on a neighboring farm. When Sheriff B. W. Adams and two county policemen attempted to arrest him, Brown opened fire and slightly wounded Officer Edward Dickson. The sheriff's party then withdrew for reinforcements.

Officers of two adjoining counties were summoned and the house was surrounded.

Sheriff Adams said that several shots were exchanged between the barricaded man and the officers.

The warrant for Brown was issued after George Thomas, a cousin and neighbor, had been arrested and was alleged by officers to have confessed to slaying Nealey and implicating Brown.

Gargles Molten Lead; Drives Nails in Body

Paris.—Paris is welcoming somewhat skeptically one Ran el Geny, an Indian fakir, who says he can't be hurt because he doesn't want to be hurt.

The high point of the exhibition of Ran el Geny, who has appeared before a company of savants and journalists as the first step toward gaining the fame necessary for a raudelille run, is gargling molten lead. Dressed in the best of Oriental robes and feathered turban, he heats a bit of lead until it melts, takes a spoonful in an aluminum spoon and puts it in his throat. When the lead has cooled he takes a bite to show the imprint of his teeth. Then, taking out the lead, asks all doubters to examine it.

The skeptics point out that Ran el Geny always breaks the spoon which transports the molten metal. Can there be substitution, ask the sophisticated Parisians? How can one be sure it is lead, query others. Objections and criticism multiply as the fakir drives nails into various parts of his body, lies upon broken glass while enthusiasts jump on his chest, and puts burning brands to his bare breast. No one seems to believe any more that fakirs are entirely justified for the substitution of an "I" for the "e" in the latter half of the word.

Jeweler Foils Bandits; Breaks Glass With Fist

New York.—Isadore Benner, owner of a jewelry store at 132 Livingston street, saved his daughter's life and jewelry worth $75,000 by smashing the plate glass of his display window with bare fist, overawing three robbers.

He, his daughter Tillie, seventeen, and his clerk, Max Glaser, were closing up when a man entered the store and said he wanted to buy a wrist watch.

Benner went to the window and took a tray of watches to the counter. The stranger thrust a long-barreled revolver against the girl's breast and said:

"One move and I'll ping your daughter."

Another man entered and started to drive Glaser into a rear room at the point of a revolver.

Benner turned and with his fist smashed the plate glass window. The crash attracted hundreds of people and the bandits, pocketing their weapons, ran out.

Fortune Saved in Dress of Dead Woman Recluse

Brooklyn, N. Y.—A small fortune in paper money was found saved in the dress of Tillie Johnson, aged woman recluse, when she died here. The money totaled $1,000.

For years the woman lived alone, never mentioning friends or relatives. She lived as if she were deathless. Money officials, however, found the money saved in the inside of her dress. Police have sought relatives in vain.

PHOENICIA.

Phoenicia, June 3.—W. Frederic, who has been travelling through different states with a musical company, Saxophone Six, sent a telegram to friends here that he had purchased the best thing Chicago had for him and that was a ticket for Phoenicia. He has arrived and will spend the summer here before returning on the trip at the fall opening.

H. Clancy, who has been interested in game birds for this section, has succeeded in getting a pair of Woodcock Partridge which he liberated in this vicinity. He is negotiating for several more pairs. These birds are not quite so large as the native partridge and in color are more of a steel gray. It is thought they will become adapted to this locality.

General Electric Accountants Here

Over One Hundred Members of Association of Cost Accountants Coming to The Governor Clinton Hotel Saturday and Remain Until Late on Sunday.

The General Electric Association of Cost Accountants from Pittsfield, Mass., Bloomfield, N. J., and Schenectady, N. Y., will make an automobile trip to Kingston on Saturday, registering at the new Governor Clinton Hotel, remaining over night and returning to their respective homes on Sunday afternoon.

This association is composed of members of the Cost Department of the General Electric Company and was formed fifteen years ago. Its purpose is to create a more friendly feeling between the various sections of the different plants and to enjoy social and educational meetings once a month.

Banquets, dances and lectures are held during the winter months and an outing in the early summer followed by a clam bake in September.

Lectures are given by heads of different departments of the General Electric Company and also from outside concerns. It also makes a trip of inspection each year, visiting a nearby manufacturing plant, which is of course an educational outing as well as a good time for its members.

This association is one of the first to consider the educational feature. Over one hundred of the members will make the trip on Saturday and are due to arrive in Kingston between 6 and 7 o'clock in about 30 automobiles. Parking space has been reserved at the Clinton Garage.

Upon their arrival rooms will be assigned and at 7:30 a banquet will be served, at which time an address will be given by Myron F. Simmons, an executive of the company, who has recently returned from Europe.

Following the banquet the members will inspect Kingston by moonlight and report for breakfast at 8:30 a. m. on Sunday.

The usual athletic stunts are planned, while many members will motor to West Point via Storm King, returning in time for dinner at 1:30 p. m. and will return home in the late afternoon.

The General Electric Company has factories in 38 cities and offices in 190 cities, with a total of 71,700 employees in the United States.

The Schenectady plant covers 350 acres with 328 buildings, housing 450 and a half million square feet and employing 22,000 people.

The Pittsfield works plant covers 88 acres with two million square feet of floor space in buildings, employing 7,000 people.

The Bloomfield, N. J. plant covers 20 acres with half a million square feet of floor space, employing 2,000 people.

The following committee will have charge: Samuel G. Silver, chairman; Schenectady, N. Y., J. J. McKanus, Bloomfield, N. J., and E. E. Weinstein, Pittsfield, Mass.

Since May 12, there had been issued up to close of business Thursday evening by the local motor vehicle bureau on Fair street 1,212 operator's licenses for 1926-27. The big rush will not be as usual the last week in June when the office will be filled with late applicants. There were 13,376 operator's licenses issued for Ulster county by the local bureau for 1925-26.

A Place in Society

for Fijian Bachelor
The Fiji Islands are now civilized, and civilization has brought many changes. Especially in this so in the native women are now treated some fifty years ago the women were more slaves of the men, they are their equals and companions.

Modern Fijian women dress well, beautify their homes and bring up their children in a healthy way. Yet they are not losing their Fijian individuality. They still retain many of their charming manners and customs, says the Pathfinder Magazine.

One of the most amusing customs retained is that bachelors are not tolerated. None of the excuses offered, such as small incomes, dislike for women, etc., are accepted there. Every man must get married. In every native town there is a woman's guidance committee.

According to one authority this committee might be appropriately called a "Make 'Em Get Married" society. For when a young lady reaches the marriageable age and has no lover, ten or more girls are arranged at the back of her head. She is then dressed in her very best to saunter about town making eyes at all the eligible bachelors.

No offer of marriage comes within a few days the mother of the young debutante puts some white pigment over the curls to make them look gray. This is supposed to indicate that the "sweet young thing" is growing gray with worry and regret. It is also a sort of indication that the bachelors are not so gallant as they might be. However, this camouflage usually produces the desired effect, and the young lady is besieged with matrimonial offers. The successful suitor then calls at her house and leaves his "card," a small whale's tooth.

Great Eastern Ruler

Saladin (1137-1193) was a powerful sultan of Egypt and Syria, who rose from a soldier of the shepherd tribe of the Kurds to be ruler of the caliph. On the caliph's death he usurped the throne and greatly extended his territory by wars. His capture of Jerusalem, in 1187, caused consternation throughout the Christian world, giving rise to the Third crusade. Saladin was compelled to surrender the stronghold of Acre to the crusading armies in 1191. For two years they contended with him for the tomb of Jesus, but without further success than the securing of a truce of three years, during which time pilgrims should be allowed to enter Jerusalem. The armistice then withdrew. The next year Saladin died, and his empire rapidly dwindled under the rule of his followers.—Kansas City Star.

Bacteria Survive Cold

Continued freezing apparently cannot kill the bacteria that cause typhoid. Prof. M. J. Procha and J. M. Brennan of the department of bacteriology of the University of Illinois, kept a colony of typhoid germs in a sample of ice cream at a temperature averaging four degrees below zero for two years. From time to time samples were taken out, from all of which positive cultures were obtained. The number of bacteria decreased gradually. It is true, but as many as 11,000 living typhoid bacteria survived in the final sample at the end of two years.

China Wants "Lead" Garters

A sudden demand for gaily colored cartons from the Chinese market recently caused considerable wonder among American garter manufacturers. The leader the color, the greater was the demand, and violent checks and plaids were particularly in favor.

The phenomenon is explained by Isaac F. Marcellon in the Saturday Evening Post. Inquiry developed that male students at Canton and elsewhere had adopted the style of wearing garters on the outside of their trousers.

Vacation Given to Rites

In China and India many persons devote their vacation period to performing religious rites and are not recommended to making their recreation centers each year one of pleasure. The many Hindu temples in a measure in Japan and to some extent in Germany. It is only the Occidental custom which plainly make vacation a period of pleasure.

The AMERICAN LEGION

(Over for This Department supplied by the American Legion News Service)

30,000 LEGION MEN WILL GO TO FRANCE

The American Legion convention in France next year will be the most representative national convention ever held by the Legion, according to Bowman Elder, chairman of the France convention travel committee of the Legion.

"It is significant that the convention is to be held on the tenth anniversary of the entry of the United States into the World war," Mr. Elder said. One of the principal objects in holding the convention abroad is to enable the former doughboys to visit the American battlefields in France and to enable them to pay homage to the thousands of their former comrades who now lie buried in the soil of France.

"It will be a great pilgrimage, a bond which there lies a high and sacred patriotic purpose, the resolve to rededicate the American Legion and its membership to the ideals of freedom and democracy, the same ideals for which those who are today buried in France died and which inspired the organization of the Legion ten years before."

Mr. Elder explained that though 30,000 veterans would be taken to France on the Legion pilgrimage, making the crossing in 24 luxurious ocean liners, this would probably be less than the number of those who actually wanted to go. In order to give everyone an equal chance, definite quotas were to be assigned to each state, based on membership of the Legion in any particular state during the year 1925.

"The Legion is further particularly anxious to make it possible for the men of moderate means who could probably never afford to go to France as a regular tourist to join the Legion expedition," Mr. Elder declared. He explained that on behalf of these men a campaign had been inaugurated by the France convention travel committee to obtain the co-operation of employers in granting extra vacation time in 1927. It will require at least four weeks to make the trip to France and back.

"Many Legionnaires who want to go to France feel that it is futile to save their money unless they can obtain the necessary extra vacation time," Mr. Elder declared. "We are therefore trying to assist them by bringing their problem to the attention of employers in all parts of the country."

"Wherever this has been done, we have received the heartiest co-operation. A number of large corporations have already issued bulletins in which they promise their employees who are ex-service men an opportunity to obtain at least four weeks vacation in 1927. Employers' associations in all sections have given the stamp of their approval."

The cost of the trip will be within the reach of almost all veterans, Mr. Elder pointed out. The lowest inclusive rate which will provide transportation both ways on the Atlantic, hotel in Paris and trips to American cemeteries and American battlefields will be approximately $175. The entire trip, including all expenses can be easily made for as little as $200, he declared.

League of Nations Post Officially Chartered

The smallest post of the American Legion was officially chartered recently at Geneva, Switzerland, seat of the League of Nations, and will be known as League of Nations post. The post is composed of four members.

Each of the members of the post is permanently associated with the secretariat of the league.

At present there are just enough members to officer the post, including a sergeant-at-arms.

The post commander, Howard B. Boston of Mount, N. D., is the chief of the internal services of the league. He is known as "the man who died and came back." He was once officially named as dead after having been seriously wounded at Chateau Thierry.

But he later staged a comeback, entered the St. Mihiel action and went on through the Argonne and later became director of athletics and entertainment for the A. E. F.

The post has unanimously voted to put at the disposal of the League's world peace and foreign relations commission "all the special facilities the post might possess by reason of the fact that it is situated at the seat of the League of Nations and all of its charter members are officials of the league."

Diplomatic Kid

"Listen here, young man," snorted the ten-year-old's father. "One more question out of you and you go to bed." Followed five minutes of silence. Then: "Dad?" "Young man?" "Dad, what was it you made the bathroom course to last time?" "Oh—slightly over, and that was a remarkable score for that course, son. If I do say so, because—er—uh—"

Symptoms Explained

The small boy was sent by his mother to see a doctor. "Well, my little man," said the jovial physician, "how do you feel?" "It's like this, doctor," came the lugubrious reply. "You know how you feel when you don't know how you feel. Well, that's how I feel."

Prizes for Pupils In City Schools

The approaching Regents' examinations in the Kingston public and parochial schools recalls that Kingston Post No. 180, American Legion, will present an award of $5 in gold to the pupil who submits the best Regents' paper in American History, the winner of the award to be declared by a committee of judges to be named by Dr. M. J. Michael, superintendent of schools. This award is given in memory of Agnes Egan Carey, a former Kingston school teacher and the deceased wife of Eugene B. Carey, Commander of Kingston Post.

The award will be presented to the winner with appropriate ceremonies as soon as possible after the winner is declared. Kingston Post also makes a similar award as the result of the January examinations, which is in memory of Louis D. B. DeLaVerne. It is a mark of distinguished scholarship and a considerable honor for the pupil who wins this prize and it is expected that some very fine American history papers will be submitted by Kingston pupils in the coming examinations.

Litigation Ended In 108 Cases

Trial, Settlement or Striking From Calendar Makes Big Reduction in Law Suits on Supreme Court Calendar.

During the May term of the Supreme court which is now closing its fifth week, Judge Roach has disposed of over 108 cases either through trial, settlement or by striking off under the rule. The May term opened with but few cases ready for trial and for the first two or three days it was difficult to keep ready cases on the calendar. During the last four weeks of the term several cases have been ready at all times and the court has been kept constantly busy. Several cases which are ready are still untried as court adjourns in order that Judge Roach may open the June term at Schoharie county on Monday afternoon.

Junior Licenses Not for Cities

State Motor Vehicle Commissioner Directs That Their Holders Cannot Drive Within City Limits—Other Restrictions Imposed.

Albany, June 4.—Additional safeguards that have been placed around the issuance of junior operator's licenses have led to many inquiries concerning the reasons for further regulation. The prevention of injury and death in accidents is the motive for increasing the restrictions.

In his message to the Legislature of 1926 Governor Smith presented facts and figures concerning accidents in which junior operators were involved.

"These figures, I feel," the governor added, "should be made known to your honorable body, as there will, no doubt, from time to time be considerable sentiment for a letting down of the bars. The question for you to determine is whether or not they have already been let down too far."

The Bureau of Motor Vehicles in a statement issued today says that 15,000 persons under 18 years of age have been granted licenses since Junior Operator's Law became effective July 1, 1925. With the responsibility placed upon him by the law of last year in view, Commissioner Charles A. Harnett directed the statistical division of the Bureau to submit monthly a report of accidents in which holders of junior operator's licenses were involved.

It was found that 10 per cent of all accidents in which persons under 18 years were involved resulted in death, while three per cent of all accidents for which persons over that age were responsible resulted fatally. It was shown also that the greater number of accidents involving persons under 18 years occurred in cities of the first, second and third classes. The analysis shows that the junior operator is more inclined to be a reckless driver than the older driver or lacks the faculty of proper thinking when an emergency arises.

New Regulations Effective July 1.
For these reasons Commissioner Harnett has ruled that beginning July 1, 1926, the holder of a junior operator's license will not be permitted to drive a motor vehicle at any time within the limits of any city of the state. It is further ruled that no applicant who is a resident of a city shall receive a license unless his parent, guardian or person with whom he resides maintains two homes, one within a city and another at a point within the state outside a city. A license so issued is valid only for the period within which the country home is occupied by the parent, guardian or person with whom the licensee resides.

Congressman Fish Talks Good Roads

time, but could not state it, but now we know what happened. Liberty Bonds went to par and there was within a year a six hundred million dollar surplus in the national treasury. Congress also enacted bills reducing the tax rate.

He said that his district, probably the richest district in the country, went wild because he favored the bonus bill and voted for it, and that many in the district raised money to defeat him when he came up for reelection.

Congressman Fish said he wanted his hearers to realize that there were three departments in the government of our country: the executive, the judiciary and the legislative. Congress is the legislative body and practically their sole purpose is to enact laws, and "you will find that they legislate wisely."

Favors West Bank Highway.

"What we need today," said Congressman Fish, "is a big forty foot wide concrete highway on the west bank of the Hudson river from New York to Albany. I don't believe in twenty-seven foot highways as they are not wide enough for the traffic they bear. Even a forty foot highway will not be wide enough a few years from now."

He said that as a general proposition he did not favor bond issues but if a bond issue was proposed for the construction of such a road he would be heartily in favor of it. He also favored a two cent tax on gas and said New York state was one of the few states that did not have such a tax.

In closing he said he was glad of the invitation he had received to be present that day and speak.

Congressman Fish was given a rising vote of thanks for his talk and before the members dispersed they shook hands with him.

Former Assemblyman Montgomery was also present at the meeting; but was not called upon for an address as he had stated he wanted to allow Congressman Fish to have all the time allowed for speaking.

Congressman Fish served during the World War as captain of the colored infantry, the Fifteenth New York Volunteers, later known as the 6888 Central Postal Directory. He was decorated with the Croix de Guerre in connection with the capture of the village of Sechoval, and took an active part in the battle of Champagne in July and the general offensive in September of 1918. Later he was major of infantry of the Fourth Division, Army of Occupation.

Indians Had Little Fruit

In some of many tribes on the south and west of the continent, wild fruit is so scarce that they plant corn or other crops for fruit trees before the white men came. After business was brought in by the Spaniards, Indians in South America quickly took to the raising of that fruit.

Four in Jail on Larceny Charge

Melvin Williams, Fred Williams, Oscar Williams and John Williams of the town of Lloyd were brought to the Ulster county jail Thursday night, to be held to await the action of the grand jury on a charge of burglary and larceny. They were committed by Judge S. G. Carpenter of Highland. It is said they are cousins.

The arrests were made by Sergeant Lockhardt and State Troopers Baker, Devaney and Seymour. A number of robberies have taken place in the town of Esopus and near Clintonville and at Libertyville, and Sergeant Lockhardt and the State Troopers have been busy running down clues. On Saturday afternoon, May 29, the house of John Roosa, in the town of Esopus on the New Paltz-Riffton road, was looted and $20 in money, a revolver, four spark plugs and a number of cans of peas and beans were piled into bags. A woman came along and the men went away.

At Libertyville two calves were stolen from a man named Jenkins, while a tire was stolen from an automobile of Viola Williams and at Clintonville a dictionary was stolen from a school house.

Sergeant Lockhardt and Trooper Baker were working from one end and Troopers Devaney and Seymour from the other section and as a result they arrested the quartet who partly confessed.

GAS FUMES KILL FATHER AND HIS TWO CHILDREN

Youngstown, Ohio, June 4.—The bodies of William Barnes, and his two children, one a girl aged eight and the other a boy, aged nine, were discovered today in a small coupe at Ellsworth.

The man had tied an inner tube to the exhaust pipe of the car, and placed the other end inside the machine. After this, he started the engine and closed the door, the fumes killed the three.

THE FACTS THAT INSPIRED OVER 500 OF OUR OWN PEOPLE TO PLEDGE THEMSELVES TO HELP YOUR HOSPITAL

MORE than five hundred of our own people have pledged their time and effort for the next eleven days to help raise a $300,000 fund to enlarge and improve your hospital.

Such an organization of volunteer workers in a public cause can be formed in only one be content with less than the minimum? We have only three beds per thousand people in this district, instead of five.

Along the west side of the river, the only hospitals between Albany and Newburgh are at Kingston. There is a small hospital at Ellenville and one at Oneonta. The large district bounded by Catskill on the north, Margaretville on the west, Wallkill on the south and the river on the east, naturally depends on Kingston for hospital service. This district contains more than 60,000 people and less than 180 general hospital beds—less than three per thousand—forty per cent below the minimum.

The New Hospital

The new Kingston Hospital will be a completely modern, fireproof, well-equipped institution such as Kingston ought to have—such as you have a right to demand when you or any of your family may need it. Its capacity will be about 120 beds, as compared with 60 at present and 90 before the fire.

There will be a complete new operating department with two major operating rooms, an eye, ear, nose and throat room and an emergency operating room; a larger and more complete X-ray department; a new and much larger maternity department, with rooms, a ward and a large nursery. There will also be a large new children's ward open to the sunlight on three sides; more semi-private and private rooms and more ward beds, and much additional equipment and facilities required for efficient service.

The Fire

Let there be no misunderstanding about the recent fire which damaged the hospital, cutting its capacity by one-third. This campaign is not directly a result of the fire. The hospital was not sufficiently large or well-equipped before the fire. The part that was damaged was always a fire menace, and was obsolete.

The purpose of the campaign is to remove the entire old damaged section, to replace it with modern fireproof construction and to further enlarge and improve the hospital.

A Unique Hospital

People in other communities complain that their hospitals never have enough money and are always appealing to the public for maintenance funds. People get very tired of this and ask "Is it necessary?"

This hospital has never had to appeal to the public for maintenance funds. The limited appeal made some years ago by the doctors was for building purposes and the few benefit performances held for the hospital were worth the admission charge.

Because this hospital has always supported itself you may hear some say that it doesn't need money and is not entitled to public help. But there is no logic in that. This campaign is not for maintenance, it is for construction—to enable the hospital to expand and improve its plant so as to give the public more and better service.

What About Profits?

You may hear it said that some people are making a profit out of the hospital. What are the facts?

The hospital exists as a "non-profit" corporation under state laws which prohibit anyone from making any profit out of it. The Board of Managers serve without compensation. The Women's Auxiliary gives many hours of work to the hospital. The work of running the hospital and treating the charity patients is done entirely by the doctors of the staff, who are paid nothing by these patients nor by the hospital. All that the doctors receive comes directly from the patients who are able to pay.

Because of economical administration, the hospital has had a surplus at the end of some years. This surplus has always been put back into public service through additions and improvements to the plant. According to law there is no other purpose to which it could be put except into the endowment fund.

Other communities envy us for having a self-supporting hospital. Isn't such a hospital as this doubly entitled to public support for new construction?

Everybody is Helping

Kingston does not stand alone in the work of raising this fund. In more than seventy other communities, some as far as forty-five miles away, friendly neighbors are working to bring in what they can to help enlarge the hospital that serves them just as it serves us.

Read the names of the committee members on the bottom of this page. Many citizens throughout the large district served by the hospital are sponsoring the movement and working for its success. A public need is involved. One and all, let's do our share!

It IS Your Hospital

The public of which you are a part absolutely controls the Board of Managers—any citizen contributing $25, and any doctor $20, into the treasury of the hospital, becomes a life member entitled to vote for managers.

way. It must come from a deep-seated sense of great public need. It must be held together by knowledge that the proposed improvement is really necessary.

The hospital is not appealing for itself. It can get along. It is appealing to you on your own behalf. It isn't big enough or modern enough to give you the protection you are entitled to.

A Public Need

How is it known that a bigger hospital is necessary? By observation and by statistics.

Right now the hospital's capacity is 60 beds. Last week there were 63 patients at times, and some had to be turned away. If you don't think the hospital needs to be enlarged, visit it and let your eyes tell you.

Health authorities have found that there ought to be five general hospital beds for every thousand of population, as the absolute minimum for public safety. Should we

CROPS OF 1926
TOUGH PROBLEMRailroads Plan Ahead for Gigantic Movement in Farm Products.

Omaha, Neb.—Western farmers and western railroads are running a race to see which can swamp the other. The farmers expect to harvest millions of bushels of grain, and the railroads are spending millions of dollars getting ready to handle one of the very biggest farm crops in their experience.

Nebraska is promising between 50,000,000 and 70,000,000 bushels of wheat for the railroads to handle; Kansas is assuring them of something like 200,000,000 bushels, Oklahoma expects to harvest around 40,000,000 bushels, and Iowa, Minnesota, North Dakota and South Dakota will swell the total by hundreds of millions.

In corn, Nebraska will furnish the railroads around 200,000,000 bushels, minus that portion of the crop which will be eaten by Nebraska hogs and cattle, which, in their turn, will provide big traffic for the railroads; Iowa is looking forward to something like 850,000,000 to 400,000,000 bushels, Kansas will produce near to 100,000,000 and additional millions will be raised by other western states.

On the other hand, some 400,000,000 to 500,000,000 bushels can be counted on from these western states.

And then there is the fruit from California, Oregon, Idaho, Washington, Colorado, Nebraska, potatoes from Nebraska, Colorado, Wyoming, Idaho, Iowa and Kansas; sugar beets and sugar from Nebraska, Wyoming, Idaho, Utah, etc. live stock from all these states, and the general production, including dairying, as well.

Added to this is the tremendous traffic which is shipped into the great trans-Mississippi country—automobiles, farm implements, and the thousand and one articles which the westerners must buy and the railroads to transport them.

As soon as the railroads saw all these prospects for big crops under way, they started their preparations to take care of the immense traffic which would be forthcoming.

The Wabash railroad must have seen an immense increase in the automobile business, for that railroad alone ordered 2,000 extra automobile freight cars in December, and these cars are just now being delivered, ready for the spring business. The Wabash already owned about 8,000 automobile cars.

Coast Fruit Traffic Gaining.

A big increase in the fruit traffic from the Pacific coast is foreseen by the Pacific Fruit express, the fruit-carrying line owned by Union Pacific and Southern Pacific railroads jointly. In January the Pacific Fruit express ordered 5,043 refrigerator cars to add to its already big fleet of refrigerators. These cars will be delivered in time for the fruit crop this year.

The Santa Fe railroad has under order 1,200 refrigerators for this year's fruit trade, and the Northwestern Refrigerator line has just ordered 1,000 of the same class cars for the 1926 business.

Since last November, western railroads have ordered 12,000 freight cars for this year's crop movement. One thousand of these went to the Union Pacific, 1,000 to the Burlington, 1,000 to the Southern Pacific, 2,500 to the Missouri Pacific, 1,000 to the Northern Pacific, 1,700 to the Frisco route, 1,000 to the Santa Fe, 900 to the Soo line, 2,000 to the Wabash, and the remainder to scattering lines.

For the 1926 trade there have been so far ordered by western railroads 1,800 gondola cars, 500 hoppers, 250 stock cars and 500 general-service cars.

In the way of motive power, the western railroads have ordered 157 locomotives of various types for use this year. The Missouri Pacific leads the list with 55.

Big Union Pacific Engines.

The Union Pacific has designed and is having built ten huge three-cylinder locomotives, each more than 100 feet long and capable of hauling a train of 100 loaded cars across the mountains from Cheyenne to Ogden at a rate of 30 miles an hour. This big "Union Pacific type" is the biggest departure in locomotives in 25 years.

The remaining locomotives of the 157 ordered are divided between a number of lines.

The Nebraska wheat crop alone will fill 1,000 trains of 50 cars each, with each car loaded with 1,200 bushels, while the Nebraska corn crop will load 2,500 trains of 50 cars each, 1,200 bushels to the car.

Prospects now are that every one of the freight cars the western railroads have ordered will be filled time after time by these western farmers when their 1926 wheat, corn, oats, live stock, potatoes, fruit, sugar beets and other farm products get under way to market, and will be filled time and time again on the return with automobiles, agricultural implements, furniture and clothing, and with the thousand and one things the West has to buy from "Farther East."

MARLBOROUGH.

Marlborough, June 3.—The reopening of the First National Bank of Marlborough occurred Saturday afternoon, May 29, from 2 until 5, after being closed for some time for the remodeling. It is said it is one of the nicest banks for the size of the town in the United States. There were at least 2,000 visitors on Saturday and each visitor received a carnation, a picture of the bank and a pamphlet pertaining to the bank as souvenirs for the reopening. Refreshments were served also. The Misses Kathryn Cumiskey, Virginia Baxter, Margaret Quimby and Grace Lockwood assisted the bank staff by serving the refreshments. The bank was very prettily decorated with ferns and hot house flowers. An orchestra of three pieces from Marlborough furnished music for the afternoon and evening.

Among the winners in a sectional track meet held in Foxborough Saturday May 22, Ralph Lockwood of Marlborough is listed as winner of first place in the shot put contest. Ralph is a senior in Marlborough Academy. Second place in the shot put contest was taken by Weeks of Marlborough, third place by Decker of Foxborough and fourth by Terpening of Marlborough. Newburgh was first place on all contests with Gooden second.

Chicken salad made a complete supper of the festival, with the usual assortment of baked, short cake and ice cream. The festive group of the church was each filled with cheer. Mrs. George Tricker and daughter, Clara, furnished a music during the evening. Frank Baker was chairman of the group of the society which was the group of the festival was held at the residence of Mrs. W. J. FREAK AUTOMOBILE IS GOING OR COMING?

PAY ATTENTION TO CAR BRAKES

Failure to Hold Is Due Mostly to Neglect of Owner, Says Hayes.

Motorists who do not enjoy the latest improvements in brakes are missing a good opportunity and overlooking safety by not making a greater effort to get the most from their present brakes is the opinion of Charles M. Hayes, president of the Chicago Motor club.

During this period of transition in brakes, he says, there is an unnecessary tendency toward a double standard of stopping, which can be prevented by getting more out of the brakes on older cars and refraining from using the newer brakes excessively.

"In considering the details of so-called 'brake failure' as a cause of accidents," Hayes explains, "the American Automobile association found most brake systems were not giving more than 75 per cent of their full efficiency by reason of owner neglect."

Both Kinds Neglected.
"This applied to four-wheel brakes as well as the two-wheel variety. One of the chief reasons for this low efficiency of so important a unit of the car is the failure of the average driver to take advantage of what is known as the wrapping action of the brake bands."

"When bands are of uniform clearance all the way round every square inch of lining comes into contact with the brake drum simultaneously. This causes the band to follow the drum, wrap around it. Brake effectiveness is greatly increased, and the car stops with far less effort on the part of the driver."

"Most car owners consider clearance uniformity, as simply a detail which provides for even wear of the linings. Rather than take the trouble to adjust the bands carefully they allow excessive clearance all around, which means that in wet weather the brakes may get water-clogged."

Equality Is Important.
"Equality of adjustment is an even more important feature. Two brakes, evenly adjusted, are safer in the long run than just one brake that makes the car stand on end. Experience demonstrates brakes are used during wet weather, and it follows if the brakes are not of equal adjustment under such conditions there is no advantage in having one good brake. The 100 per cent brake may reduce the resultant braking efficiency to all, and cause a skid."

"Comparatively few car owners appreciate the effect of the weather and the elements on the brakes. In damp weather linings will be much more effective than in dry weather. Yet few owners will remember to wash the brakes when there is very little natural dampness."

"If all tends to work out on the right brake band of the rear wheel during hot weather the simplest remedy is to drive up on the crown of the road instead of allowing the axle to tip to the right so constantly."

Keep Carburetor Clean

The only attention necessary to the carburetor is keeping it clean. There is a drain pocket at the bottom of most of the carburetors which should be cleaned out once in a while by opening the little cock or taking the plug out at the bottom. Shut off the gasoline, remove the float and wipe the deposits out of the float chamber. No adjusting need be done to the carburetor after it has once been set.

Useful Screw Driver

The ordinary screw driver is not adapted to all classes of work. By making a heavy screw driver with the upper portion in the form of a heavy square of metal a socket wrench may be placed on the tool so that all the leverage necessary may be obtained.

Foot Brakes a Menace

Inefficient brakes were the cause of 79 per cent of the 623,000 automobile accidents in the United States last year, according to reports reaching the public safety department of the Automobile Club of Southern California.

To Cut Marshmallows

To prevent marshmallows from sticking to your fingers when cutting them in small pieces, dip the scissors in kerosene and use them without drying. The work may be done very easily, as the marshmallows do not stick to the blades.

Conservation of Tires Requires Extra Caution.

Conservation of tires, urged by Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover and endorsed by the American Automobile association, must be accompanied by extra caution in driving if the motorist expects to benefit by his plan of lowering rubber prices by saving rubber, according to Charles M. Hayes, president of the Chicago Motor club.

"There would be no gain if motorists failed to recognize the importance of driving with increased care when getting the last few miles out of old tires," declares Mr. Hayes. "There would be only disaster through front-wheel 'blowouts and skidding.'"

This is believed to be the first suggestion to automobile owners in general, to temper their economy program with common sense.

"A new tire is a safety device," Mr. Hayes adds. "Its strong carcass is a symbol of security. With it the driver is justified in running at higher car speeds in the country and in operating his car at normal traveling speeds over rough roads where excessive strains are placed on tires."

"The rough treads of a new tire save skids, provide better traction and assist in stopping. A driver need not consider himself at a disadvantage with old tires, however, provided he is provident enough to make his driving conform to his rubber."

"We cannot afford to stretch safety while stretching rubber. Something will snap unless common sense and caution are abundant enough to provide the necessary element of compensation."

Hood Should Be Removed During Warmer Spells

Don't forget to remove the cover from the front of the radiator when there is a thaw or the weather gets mild for a few days after being quite cold. When the temperature is away down it is of course very wise to partially—if not fully—cover the front of the radiator to prevent the bitter cold from getting the engine too cold for proper operation.

But having adjusted matters for such days, remember that when the warmer spells arrive the shutting out of the air may be too complete, and you will cause the power plant to overheat, often with serious results. The point is that the car driver must use discretion in controlling the radiator's cooling, and on the days when he feels warm he should not expect the engine to take a different view of the matter.

Handy Piece of Canvas

Few car owners realize what a convenient accessory is a little square of canvas, about eighteen inches over all. It saves trousers when you have to kneel to get at some inaccessible part. It keeps the jack from slipping on snow or ice. It keeps the inner tube out of the dust when this part is being inserted by the roadside. It will serve to strain gasoline through; it will keep tools from rattling; it will protect the hand in handling hot parts.

Harden Cast Iron Parts

At times it is desirable to harden medium or small cast iron parts. Here's how: Take a half pint of sulphuric acid, two quarts of common salt, one-half pound of saltpeter, two pounds of alum, a quarter-pound of potassium permanganate, quarter-pound of cyanide of potassium and dissolve in ten gallons of soft water. Heat the iron to a cherry red and dip in the solution. If the parts are wanted very hard repeated heating and dipping will be necessary.

Handy Riveting Stake

A piece of one-inch round stock, heated and bent in the shape of the letter P, with the final loop not quite completed, makes an admirable bench vice riveting stake. This stake is handy in many riveting and bending jobs around the home garage, repairing broke bands, bending pipe over, etc.

Making Friends on Road

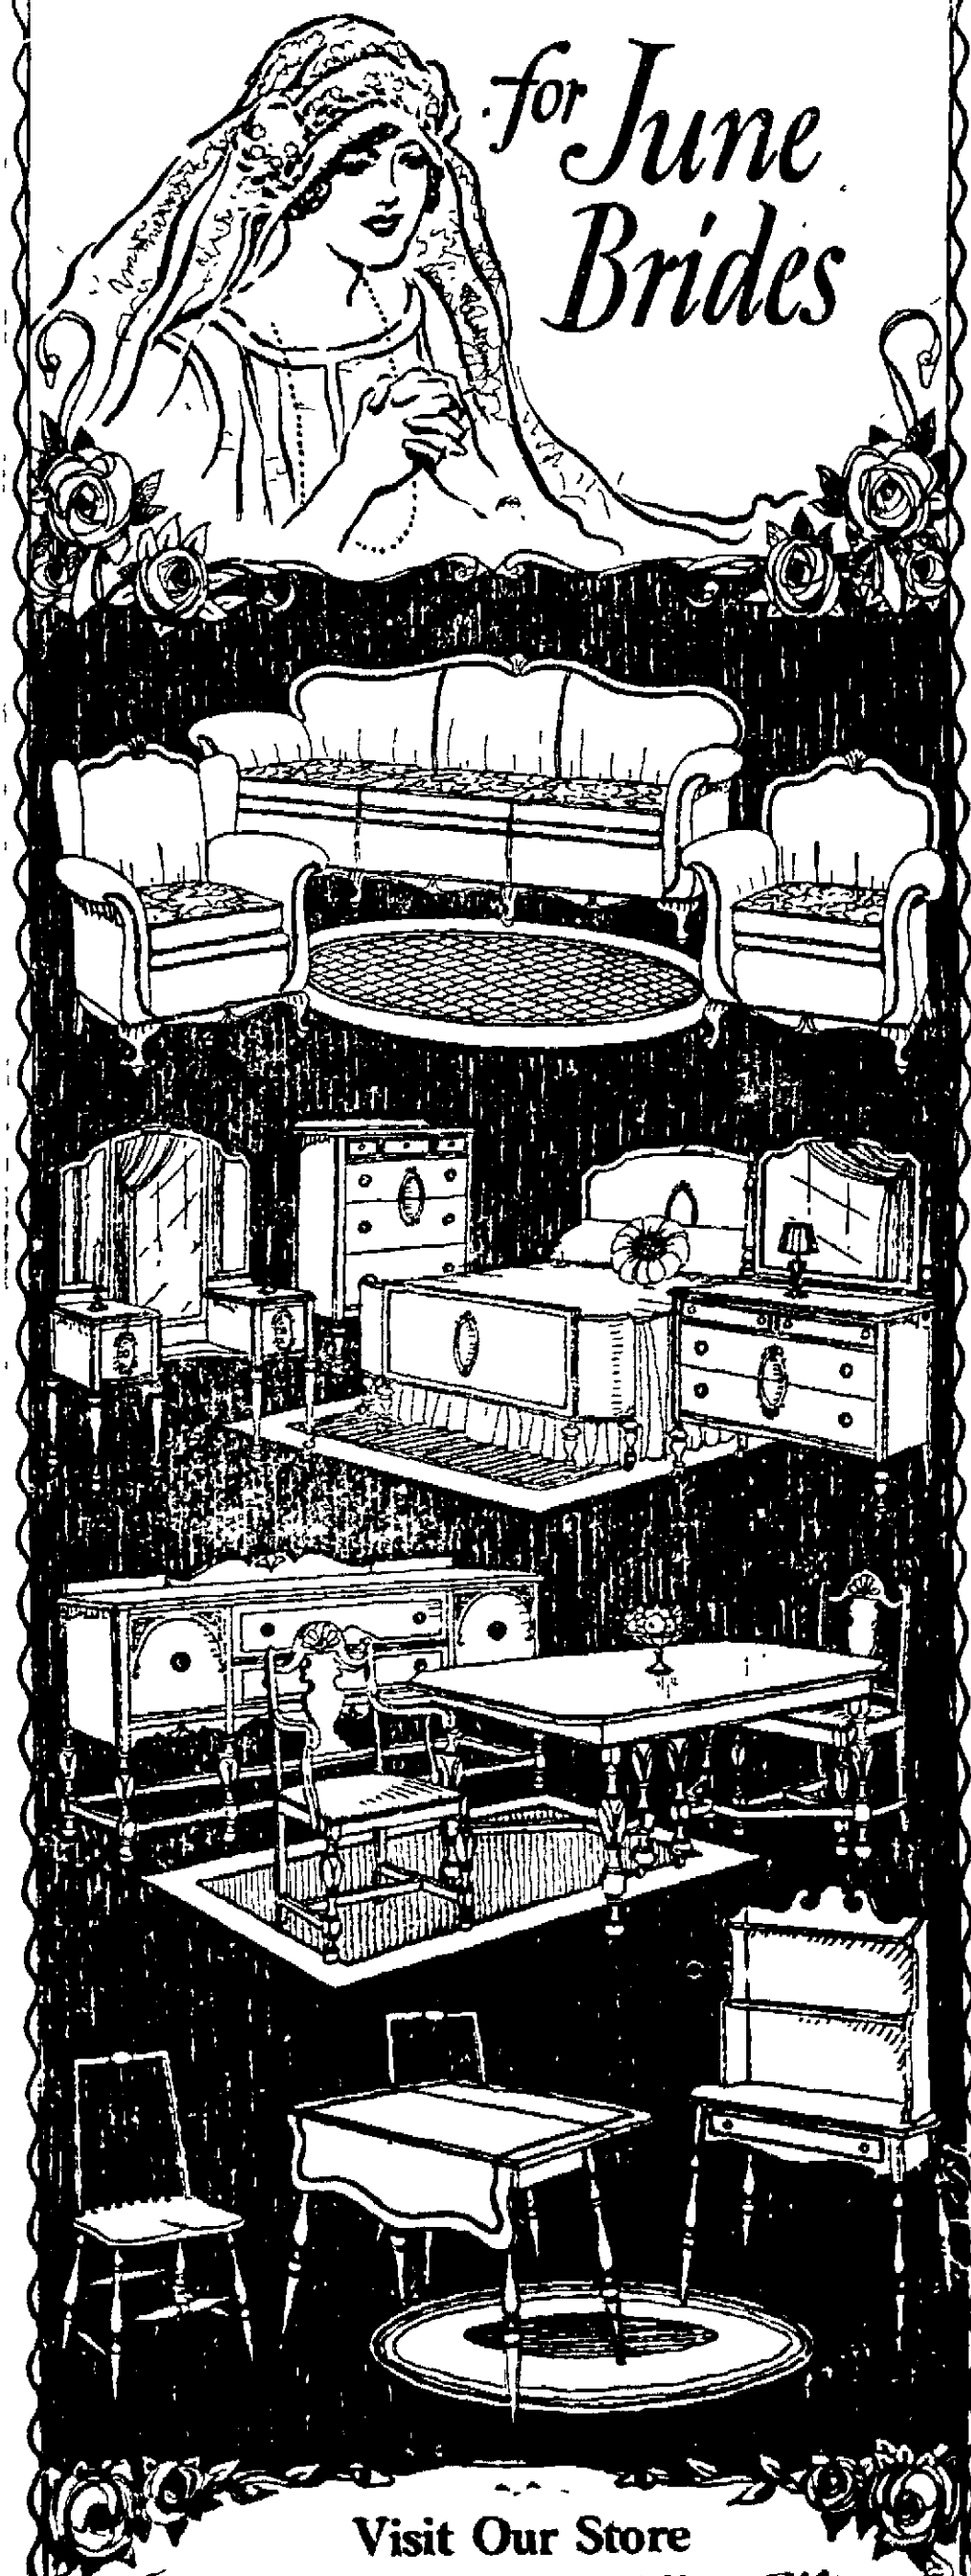

Sharing the road with others makes friends. Working the road makes an unnecessary enemy. You can't afford to make enemies—they may prove poisonous.

Stamp Monitor Flooding

The Department of Agriculture says that in a test in south Georgia under identical conditions except for stamp also acres of cleared field were plowed in the time required to plow seven acres of stamp field.

Ulster County Properties Sold

Theodore Swift, owner of the fruit farm containing about 60 acres on the banks of the Hudson river, has sold it completely stocked to Mrs. Susan Murray of 28 West 118th street, New York city. This farm is one of the best located fruit farms in that section, and also a well known boarding house. The new owner has taken possession, and added many improvements to the same. Robert G. Groves and R. Williams were the attorneys.

The boarding house belonging to E. Clements located at Blooming ton was taken over by A. W. Nodene, of 960 Prospect avenue, Bronx, New York city. Mr. Nodene has for a few past summers rented one of the Jennings cottages at Lake Katrine. He was very much taken up with this section and looked over a number of places to make a home in Ulster county and finding this property bought it at once, making a number of improvements to it. Already it is considered one of the finest located places in any part of this county. The property is located near Greenkill Park and golf links.

Arthur Brazee of the Rosendale road, who built a bungalow about two years ago, sold the same to Miss Etta Turner who has taken possession. She will lay out part of the land in bungalow sites, facing the road leading from Greenkill Park to Eddyville. The property contained about twenty acres.

George Koch, who about two years ago bought a four family house in the lower section of Kingston, has resold the same to Mr. and Mrs. Philip Reing of West Camp who will make a few alterations and make it their home.

Mrs. Martha Horbert of Jamaica, L. I., who was owner of a lovely home in Tilton, has sold it to Mrs. Carrie Snyder, who has taken possession and completely furnished it. Mrs. Snyder is from 265 St. Nicholas avenue, Brooklyn. She is laying out a lot of work that will be done to the property. This place is located on the main highway leading from the state road to the public school property in that village.

One of the most important deals that has taken place in some time was closed at the law office of V. B. Van Wageningen, at 240 Fair street, when Mr. and Mrs. F. DamKoehler sold the Maple Terrace to John Stinder of 2320 57th street, Woodside, L. I. This property was one of the finest properties in that section of Rosendale, containing one of the best established boarding houses in Ulster county. The property contains about twenty rooms with every improvement. It is reported that Mr. and Mrs. DamKoehler will remain a few weeks with the new owner and then will leave for a trip to Berlin, Germany. The former owners owned the place for the past six years and while they made a great many friends. In going away they will leave a host of friends.

A. T. S. Clarke, formerly of St. Henry, who since selling his farm on the state road has made his home with his son, Dr. Harold Clarke, at 113 Hone street, this city, has purchased the place of John Fiedor near Chapel street, containing about 10 acres with a handsome dwelling and with modern improvements. Robert G. Groves was the attorney for the both parties.

Woman's Rights Well

Established in Tibet

Marriage in Tibet is not the least interesting of the customs of that remarkable country, writes an exploring globe-trotter in a British paper, reported by the Atlanta Constitution. As a rule it takes place only in families possessed of wealth and social position. According to the laws of Tibet, the eldest brother has the first right to marry, since he alone inherits the ancestral property. But if there are brothers the bride is shared by them as by so many junior husbands. On the day of the wedding the bride is barricaded in her home. Long arguments, in which the whole village takes a part, over the profitability of the marriage are indulged in through a hole in the door. Finally a scarf is waved, as a sign of surrender, and the gates are opened. The bridegroom's mother then hands out sour milk and cakes to the guests and the ceremonies begin. The Tibetan woman is very much the head of the household. The men must bring their earnings to her. When they need money they must ask for it. A husband who is idle too long is liable to be reprimanded or even divorced and driven away.

Counting the Pennies

"Getting to work from an all night poker party is sometimes something of a problem," says a downtown business man. "The other morning after an awfully bad session, I found I had just a few minutes in which to reach my office several miles distant. I had only $1.24 but I called a taxi cab. I kept one eye on the meter and when the bill amounted to $1.30, I ordered the driver to stop. I wanted the ten cents for coffee and sinkers and the four cents for luck.—Detroit News

HOWE ABOUT—

By ED HOWE

(Copyright by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

Bill Johnson has written a book called "These Women," and manages to make a good suggestion (I have not seen one before in years). . . . The good suggestion is, ante-nuptial agreements. That is, before marriage let the proposed husband and wife talk things over, and make agreements for the future, in presence of witnesses, and in legal form. If either party has unusual notions, let them be discussed at a time when separation may be accomplished without scandal or alimony.

I know a woman who was divorced from her husband ten years ago, and it is a source of gratification to me to know that she is one of the most popular women in the town where she lives. It is a very unusual case; divorced people somehow seem to have tar on them.

It is generally said of a man I know that he is losing his mind. . . . The trouble is, he is letting himself go; talking too much about trifling things, bothering his acquaintances too much with his opinions, and is a little meaner. Little faults he hid years ago, he now boldly displays. . . . Men do not go crazy; they become meaner.

I heard a railroad man grumbling the other day. A cement road had been built beside a railroad track connecting two populous towns. On the completion of the cement road, a line of automobiles was put on, and the railroad robbed of most of its passenger business. . . . The railroad man was grumbling because his company had been compelled to pay 24 per cent of the expense of the cement road.

Another of my notions is, we should assert our civil rights as we have asserted our religious rights, and cause the politicians to treat us as respectfully as the churchmen treat us.

When a show or a book is half way good, it goes big. Too much is not expected of authors or readers.

Soon after people begin hearing of a man rather regularly, they begin picking at him.

Everyone likes the literature of protest. And every protestant is unreliable; he protests too much; conditions are never as bad in anything as he says they are. . . . Protest is like sentiment: it is always overdone. . . . Protestants should at least be truthful and reasonable, but rarely are.

ALLIGERVILLE.

Alligerville, June 2.—There were very few families in the village who did not have the joy of greeting relatives and friends Sunday. Many came from out of town during the holiday period to visit their old home country at Alligerville. The country is in an unusually good condition this spring. The entrance road is good, the grass and flowers are luxuriant and all old debts have been cleared away.

There were several visitors at the home of Jeremiah Young on Sunday. Joe Van Wageningen and family, Andrew Young and family and Charles Avery and family of Kingston. Besides several village callers, Mr. Young is the only surviving Civil War veteran in this community. In fact, within the walls of the Church Reformed Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell and Mrs. Andrew of Walden and Mrs. Mary of New York city, visited their brother, Joseph Evans, Sunday. Mrs. Stanley DeWitt of Ulster spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. H. R. DeWitt.

Mr. and Mrs. John Foster of New York were guests of Mrs. Eli Evans over the holiday.

Mr. and Mrs. Billy Coleman of Mt. Vernon stopped at the DeGroot house over the week end.

Mrs. Mary R. Krum has returned from a two weeks' stay with her daughter in Briar Cliff, much improved in health.

Larry Lawrence and family and Percy Allen and family of Port Chester visited their parents over Sunday.

The Alliger place, now owned by Elmer Smith, is being improved considerably. The house has been painted, interior and exterior, and presents a fine appearance. In its setting of woods and old barns, Tracy Farrell, wife and Tracy.

Mr. and Harry Farrell of Wint. Lake spent the holiday with David Farrell.

Walter Elected For 16th Time

Fred J. Walter Re-elected Treasurer of Lutheran Synod of New York and New England—Laymen Pledge Support to $5,000,000 Campaign for Ministerial Relief.

The Rev. Dr. Samuel Trexler of New York city was elected for the third time as president of the Lutheran Synod of New York and New England, to serve for three years, at the silver jubilee convention of the synod, Wednesday, in the Church of the Reformation, Rochester, N. Y. The Rev. Henry C. Erbes of Trinity Church, Rochester, for the twelfth time was re-elected secretary; and Fred J. Walter of Kingston for the sixteenth time treasurer. Dr. Trexler was congratulated by a rising vote of the delegates on the publication of his book, "Crusaders of the Twentieth Century," in which he has told of the story of the synod during the past quarter of a century.

Synodical Missionary Superintendent James Berg of Mt. Vernon, N. Y., presenting his report, said that with a million dollar gift for mission work on Long Island "we could make New York Christian." He listed five new mission congregations that were applying for admission to the synod as the result of the past year's missionary effort. These congregations, which were received later, are: The First Lutheran Church of Bladell, N. Y.; the Church of the Resurrection, Rochester, N. Y.; Holy Trinity, Flatbush, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Christ Church, Little Neck, N. Y.; and the First Lutheran Church of Pearl River, N. Y.

Support of Aged Ministers.
The Rev. Carl F. Intemann, Grace Church, Brooklyn, in the report of the Committee on Ministerial Relief, drew attention to the $5,000,000 campaign of the United Lutheran Church for the support of aged ministers. "It is a shame the church has neglected this so long," he said. "The men who have served the church faithfully during their years of activity ought not to be thrown upon charity of the community when they can no longer serve."

Would Cost Cent a Day.
C. F. W. Herman Hess, executive secretary of the Laymen's Movement of the United Lutheran Church, at a meeting of the laymen pointed out that if all the Lutheran in the United Lutheran Church gave a cent a day, the five million dollars would be raised.

Healy W. Ungerer of Rochester, chairman of the Synodical finance committee, proposed that the laymen of the synod give their support to the scheme.

Frederick Henrich of Buffalo, explained that the five million dollars would form an endowment which would enable the $300 annual grant to aged ministers to be increased to $600.

William H. Stachel of Rochester said that, just as business found it good business to establish pension funds for their employees, so should the church realize the value of providing pensions for its pastors.

The laymen unanimously decided to give their support to the $5,000,000 campaign.

Student House For Harvard.
N. D. Goehring, pastor to three hundred Lutheran students attending sixteen schools and colleges in Boston, Mass., including Harvard University, said the greatest need just now was a student house near Harvard, where the pastor could live and extend hospitality to the students. This Boston group of Lutheran students is made of thirty-one states and ten foreign countries, representing practically every known division of Lutheranism in America.

Executive Committee.
The election for the executive committee resulted in the following appointments: The Revs. William M. Horn, Ithaca, N. Y. and F. A. Kahler, D. L., LL. D., Buffalo, N. Y., and Messrs. Robert F. Bowe and James Gear, New York city; Frederick Henrich, Buffalo, and William H. Stachel, Rochester, N. Y. These will act with the president of synod and the presidents of the two conferences—the Rev. Hermann F. Miller, Buffalo (western) and Charles D. Trexler, Brooklyn, N. Y. (eastern).

Walter Elected Delegate.
The following delegates were elected to represent the synod at the biennial convention of the United Lutheran Church at Richmond, Va., in October this year: The President, Dr. F. F. Fry, Rochester; Dr. F. A. Kahler, the Rev. C. D. Trexler, Dr. A. Steimle, Dr. W. M. Horn, Hermann F. Miller and Dr. Paul Scherer, New York; and Messrs. James Gear and R. F. Bowe, New York; W. H. Stachel, H. W. Ungerer, Rochester; Rodney T. Martinson, Brooklyn; Frederick Henrich, Buffalo; C. A. Rockwell, Utica and Fred J. Walter, Kingston.

Synod's Missionary Zeal.
At the service of special silver jubilee celebration held in Reformation Church on Wednesday afternoon the Rev. Dr. F. H. Knobel, president of the United Lutheran Church in America, recalled that in 1896 when he was doing mission work in New York, it was declared that the metropolis was a lost cause so far as the Lutheran Church was concerned. A number of young Lutheran pastors determined that should not be so; and it was a part of their missionary zeal that called the Synod of New York and New England into being. And the strength of that synod had always been its missionary zeal.

The Rev. Chalmers E. Fronts brought the greetings of the New York synod; the Rev. Henry Wasserman of the New York Ministerium; and Professor E. M. Fischer, of Mt. Airy Theological Seminary, of the Ministerium of Pennsylvania.

INTERESTING HAPPENINGS AT COMFORTER CHURCH

The drama given by the young people of Clinton Avenue M. E. Church at the Church of the Comforter hall on Tuesday evening was a huge success. Notwithstanding the heavy shower just before the hour set for the play to begin the church hall was well filled. The play, "A Dream of Queen Esther," in three acts and with thirty eight characters, was greatly enjoyed by the large audience present. The acting of the different characters was fine and showed that much time and thought had been given in preparation for the play. It is expected that these same young people will give another play, "Ruth," in the church hall sometime in the fall or early winter. A play of the character of "Esther" is both highly entertaining and educational.

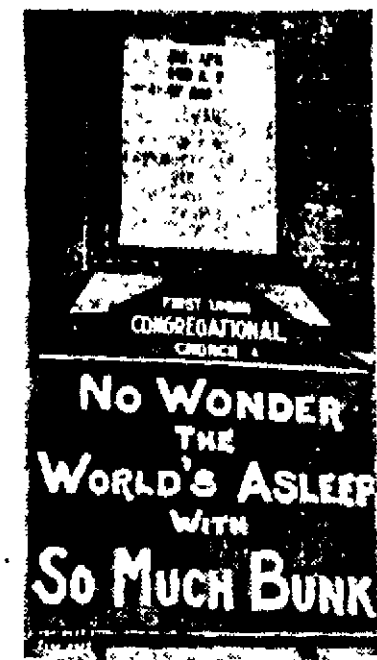

Next Sunday evening in the church hall at 8 o'clock these young people will give the pageant-drama "The Challenge of the Cross." This pageant is by Charles A. Marsh and contains a very appealing and personal message. It is an old story told again in a new and most beautiful way. The time of this drama is today; the place is anywhere on the highway of life and the characters may represent anybody.

Miner's Search for Watch After Cave-in Saves Life

Iron River, Mich.—Felix Normantowitch is proud of his five gold watch, and he was rewarded for the care he gave it. It saved his life in a cave-in which caused the death of another man. The cave-in occurred in the Forbes mine here. Normantowitch and Matt Cornowski heard a roar of sliding earth and a puff of air told them that the mine walls had fallen. They rushed to the shaft, but Normantowitch went back for his watch, left on a timber. A moment later a timber fell, killing Cornowski where Normantowitch had stood. After being imprisoned for 30 hours, Normantowitch was rescued. He and his watch were safe.

SUGGESTS HOW TO FIND SAFETY DURING TORNADO

Southwest Corner of the Basement About the Best Shelter When Twister is Approaching.

Harrisburg, Ill.—While no place in the path of a tornado is safe, as a rule a person is safer inside a building than outside.

Scientists attending the annual meeting of the Illinois State Academy of Science here were told this by Prof. Frank H. Colyer of the Southern Illinois State Normal university. The data by Professor Colyer was compiled after a close study of the tri-state tornado, which swept through Missouri, Illinois and Indiana.

"A person is safer in some building," he said, "because the air is literally full of violently whirling missiles of various kinds. Many of these are splintered timbers from destroyed buildings that may at any moment be thrust through the body."

"In other cases a person may be struck by the rapid movements of any kind of debris in the air. In case the building has a basement, the southwest corner of this basement is generally a safer place to be than the rooms above the ground, in this case, however, one should keep away from the stove or furnace with a fire in it. A number of persons were burned to death while pinned beneath fallen debris which were near a furnace or stove."

"If there is a room with a strong box, steel bed, or exceptionally strong table, it is well to lie flat on the floor near such an object, for it will often hold up a fallen ceiling or roof sufficient to save a person from being crushed. Many people came out of completely wrecked buildings, because they had presence of mind enough to place themselves in such a position."

Sometimes hallways, where the walls are near together may be safer than large rooms, where there is nothing to break the force of a falling roof or ceiling.

"If a person sees the funnel-shaped cloud of a tornado at a considerable distance he may drive an auto, or a pedestrian may run fast enough to escape. In that case it is better to run, or drive, northward, since the center of the destructive path northward is less than from the center to the south."

D. A. R. Work of Year Reviewed

Wiltwyck Chapter Holds Annual Report of Officers in Which Patriotic and Other Activities Are Set Forth Interestingly.

The last 1925-26 meeting of Wiltwyck Chapter, D. A. R., which was held at the Chapter House on Thursday afternoon with the regent, Mrs. T. D. Lewis presiding, showed in the annual reports that the Chapter, has been patriotically, educationally, philanthropically and socially very active during the year. The reports were entertaining as well as records of facts.

Owing to the illness of the chaplain, Mrs. Duncan Lawrence, Mrs. William J. Cranston had charge of the devotional exercises.

During the month of August, the Daughters of the American Revolution of New York state will be the hostesses at the Sesqui-Centennial at Philadelphia and Mrs. W. N. Fessenden was appointed hostess from Wiltwyck Chapter to represent the chapter there.

The greater part of the afternoon was devoted to the annual reports of the officers and standing committees. Mrs. Louise M. Scott, registrar, reported a membership of 208, with 8 names now at Washington to be approved.

The Historian's Report.

As usual, one of the most valuable reports given is that of the historian, which was given by Miss Edith Scott as follows:

Report of the Historian of Wiltwyck Chapter Daughters of the American Revolution for the year ending June 1st, 1926.

Madam Regent and Members of Wiltwyck Chapter D. A. R.

The 34th year of the life of Wiltwyck Chapter draws to a close and it becomes my duty and privilege as historian to recall to your minds the outstanding events and accomplishments of that year. A year that has been filled with all those things which fill the lives of all individuals and organizations made up of individuals who are earnestly striving to preserve the best from the past; build worthily the present, and vision and inspire a better future for America. A year marked by faithful attendance at the meetings by a goodly proportion of our members, by the earnest effort and hard work of many, the ready response to all calls by still more, by the pleasure of fellowship at our meetings and social gatherings, by delightful entertainments furnished by our members and friends to each of whom especially we give our deepest appreciation and gratitude; a year marked by receiving and by giving as generously as we could afford; a year marked by the call to the Beyond for some.

We close the year with a total membership of 208. During the year seven new members have been received into the Chapter. Mrs. M. Gardner, Mrs. Hiram S. Whitney, Miss Katharine Todd, Miss Mary A. Raschke, Miss K. Arnetta Raschke and Mrs. I. Stuart Williams by ancestor's services accepted at Washington; and Mrs. E. B. Kierstedt transferred to us from Paulus Hook Chapter of Jersey City.

I regret to record the loss of twelve members. Four of these were transferred: Mrs. William Davis and Mrs. Vedder, to help form a new chapter in Catskill and two went to Chapters elsewhere. Six of these devoted members have been separated from us by death: Mrs. Ella Finch, Southernland Clarke, Mrs. Mary Frances Merritt Ruby, Mrs. Elma Hardenburgh LeFever, Mrs. Margaret Van Keuren Gill, Mrs. Sarah Louise Wood Van Hovenberg, Mrs. Julia C. Munn Hasbrouck.

We feel this loss keenly; the more so as two of these were past regents. Mrs. Julia C. Munn Hasbrouck and Mrs. Sarah Louise Wood Van Hovenberg, regents who were very able during their terms of office, who maintained their interest and helpfulness after their regency was over and whose wise counsel and inspiration we shall deeply miss.

$203 has been sent by this Chapter this year toward State and National work. A goodly portion of this sum goes to aid with the fine work in Americanization which is being carried on by this organization at Ellis Island and elsewhere. $20 of this sum went to the school for Mountain Whites at Tennessee.

Our local gifts have been to the American Legion Building fund, the Industrial Home and the Salvation Army.

$1,400 in bonds for the new Auditorium in Washington which is to be called Constitution Hall were subscribed for by our members.

We record with gratitude the following gifts: From Mr. John Ryder, a bronze clock and two candelabra in memory of Mrs. Ryder, a former member; from Mrs. G. W. Rose of Highland, mother of the late Mrs. Oatis, framed engraving of the United States Senate Chamber in 1841 with key; from Mrs. G. N. Wood a frame for our certificate of membership in the Keamore Association; from the late Mr. De Witt Rose, a legacy of $1,000.

Two card parties have been given during the year to raise funds to help us make gifts and meet certain obligations.

If we start this history back where the last historian left off, the June meeting of 1920, and review the outstanding features of that meeting, we remember that our beloved Past Regent, Mrs. Van Hovenberg, passed on her office to her successor, Mrs. Lewis, re-elected for her term, one which it would be well for us all to remember. "In Union There is Strength." She presented to the Chapter a gift to be always kept by it and worn by each succeeding Regent. Interesting annual reports were given at this meeting and a most excellent report of the year's work by the historian, Mrs. Mary C. Childers. One of the entertaining features of this meeting was an interesting account given by Mrs. Wood of her visit to Keamore and a vivid description of that historic spot. Mrs. Safford and Mrs. Van Ingen were the hostesses for the afternoon.

The usual outing on Flag Day was not held but on Saturday, June 27th a number of our members went to the Council of the Hudson Valley Chapters held at Knox Headquarters at New Windsor, about five miles beyond Newburgh. The meeting there was made interesting by addresses by Mrs. Lockwood, State Vice-Regent, Mrs. Nash and others; but it was made charming by the setting in front of this most historic old home which was bought by the Sons of the American Revolution in 1923 and presented to New York State to be preserved as a museum one well worthy of a visit by any Daughter.

The actual Chapter Year of 1925 and 1926 opened with the October meeting at which we were greeted by our new Regent, Mrs. Lewis.

The very attractive Year books, which have now become a regular institution of Wiltwyck Chapter, embellished this year for the first with an excellent picture of the Chapter House, were ready for distribution.

After the business session this meeting was turned over to our Ellenville members who entertained us most delightfully, presenting Mrs. Miss Margaret Moore who played two Chopin numbers and later Raft's Etude Melodique; and Miss Alice Neale, Regent of Minnisk Chapter of Goshen, who gave a very interesting talk on the Constitution. Mrs. C. Dwight Divine presented the program and Mrs. Jerome Snyder, Mrs. William C. Rose and Mrs. Charles Delaney (all of Ellenville) served refreshments.

The 35th anniversary of the National Daughters of the American Revolution which fell on October 11th and our own Chapter Day were jointly celebrated Friday, October 16th. We had as our guests Mrs. Wilbur of Poughkeepsie and Harp, regent of the Poughkeepsie Chapter, also a representative from each of our children chapters, Hendrick Hudson Chapter, Saugerties Chapter, and the Chancellor Livingston Chapter of Rhinebeck, each of whom gave us a brief message.

The address of the afternoon was delivered by Judge A. T. Clearwater on "The Constitution." He remarked that it was preeminently fitting that upon so important an occasion there should be some allusion to the Constitution because of the fact that the first and best Constitution of the State was adopted at Kingston and from that time 143 years ago it has been regarded and treated as a model of State Constitutions.

The program was pleasantly varied by music, piano solos by Mrs. Van Buren, Miss Mary Isabella Forsyth's Chapter hymn sung by one of the members and solos by Mrs. Harstien, accompanied by Mrs. Glendinning. The social committee, Mrs. Silas LeFever, chairman, served delicious refreshments.

At the November meeting reports from the State Conference held in New York city were given by Mrs. Fessenden and Mrs. George DuBois of New Paltz and then an exceptionally interesting program was presented by the New Paltz members of the Chapter. Mrs. Bruyn Hasbrouck introduced Mrs. George Pratt, who sang delightfully two numbers accompanied by Mrs. Seward. The speaker of the afternoon was Prof. C. C. Ward of the New Paltz Normal who spoke on "Immigration," giving the history of immigration into America. The New Paltz members were also the hostesses for the afternoon.

At the December meeting we were carried back in imagination to the period of American history of 1740 and thereabouts. Miss Edith Holmes in costume of that period, sang two groups of songs from a book published in 1802 and containing songs of the 1740 period which had been loaned by Miss Katharine Forsyth. Mrs. Van Buren gave a piano solo, "The Battle of Prague" composed in 1744 Mrs. Charles G. Ellis read a most interesting paper on "A Pioneer Household."

Mrs. C. Victor Livingston and Mrs. Herbert were the hostesses. The New Year's first meeting was made delightfully entertaining by a number of our members giving "interesting incidents in the lives of their Ancestors." A particularly amusing one was given by Mrs. C. Victor Livingston concerning her great grandmother, Leah DuBois Kierstedt, who was also a relative of our Regent. In this family the members used to take turns at night watching for the Indians. Mrs. Kierstedt and a colored man were taking their turn. Looking out she said, "Those bushes were not there before. Then she saw the bushes move toward the house. She fled, the bushes fell. The next morning blood was found where the bushes had been."

dedicated to the D. A. R. of the Empire State. As an encore they sang a French carol.

Mrs. Walter Steiner read a paper on "The Historic and Legendary Hudson." This was a remarkably fine paper full of interesting facts and amusing incidents such as the tale told about the Supper of Duyvil which connects the Hudson and Harlem rivers. One Anthony said that he would swim across in spite of the devil. He went half way, they blew on his trumpet and sank. One man said he saw the devil draw him down. Mrs. Steiner's paper was sent to the State Historian and accepted with thanks as fulfilling all the requirements and so to be preserved.

Mrs. Albert J. Irwin and Miss Dorothy Oliver were hostesses.

Washington's Birthday was observed in a fitting manner with a very pleasant social afternoon for which a delightful musical program had been arranged by Mrs. Kingman. As our regent was ill, the first vice-regent, Mrs. McCommons, presided. The program was preceded by devotional exercises and the salute to the flag. Those who so graciously entertained us were The Crescendo Mandolin Club of the Y. W. C. A., Mrs. Buley, leader; Frederick Broadie, violinist, accompanied by Miss Genevieve Main; Miss Ruth Scott, pianist, and Miss Elizabeth Bishop, soloist. After the program the social committee served refreshments from a prettily decorated tea table.

Our regent, Mrs. Lewis, was still ill at the time of the March meeting, so Mrs. McCommons again presided. At this meeting Miss Mary Baker read a very interesting paper on "The Officials of New York State and Their Duties." Mrs. Alvah Staples and Mrs. David Terry served refreshments.

At the April meeting Mrs. Lewis was able to be with us again and was given a cordial welcome by the Chapter members. The program for the afternoon was arranged by Mrs. Kingman and consisted of piano solos by Miss Dorothy Kline and a reading, "A Proposal Under Difficulties," given by Miss Sally Davis. The hostesses were Miss Pettigill and Mrs. Louis Baston.

On the evening of May 5th, the Chapter presented Miss Katharine Rodger, soprano, accompanied at the piano by her mother, Clara Aldrich Rodger in an entertainment devoted to the songs and legends of the North American Red Man. This unique and delightful program was given in the chapel of the First Reformed Church and netted a goodly sum to be used for painting and repairs to our Chapter House.

The outstanding features of our May meeting were very interesting reports given by Mrs. Arms and Mrs. Fessenden of the unveiling in the Church of the Holy Innocence at Cornwall of a tablet to the memory of Margaret Corbin, who was the first woman to fight in the Revolutionary War, and of the military service held at the interment of her remains in the United States Military Cemetery at West Point. Margaret Corbin was known as Captain Molly and she received a serious wound when she sprang to the gun from which her husband had been shot down.

The Regent reported that as neither of the delegates to the Continental Congress had been able to go, the two alternates, the Misses Minnie and Sarah Millard, served as delegates. Miss Minnie Millard gave an inspiring report of the Congress and Mrs. Lewis followed by giving some facts relative to its closing scenes.

At this meeting Wiltwyck Chapter went unanimously on record as being firmly opposed to Sunday movies and vaudeville in Kingston, and a resolution to that effect was passed.

Mrs. G. N. Wood and Miss Edith Holmes were the hostesses.

At the annual election held May 20, the following officers were elected:

Regent, Mrs. T. D. Lewis; first vice-regent, Mrs. J. A. McCommons; second vice-regent, Mrs. Virgil B. Van Wageningen; recording secretary, Mrs. William R. Anderson; corresponding secretary, Miss Dorothy Oliver; treasurer, Mrs. Silas LeFever; registrar, Mrs. J. W. Scott; historian, Mrs. Edith Holmes; chaplain, Mrs. Duncan Lawrence; members of the local board of management, Mrs. Bruyn Hasbrouck, Miss Minnie Millard, Mrs. E. G. Adams and Mrs. W. A. Frey.

While the tellers were counting ballots we were entertained by Mrs. Sade Coles, a chapter member, who resides in Washington, D. C. Mrs. Coles recited a beautiful original poem, "Spring in the Shenandoah," and played a spirited march, "American Legion," which was also composed by her.

An interesting farewell letter from Mrs. Nash, our retiring State Regent, was read.

The closing event of the year was the Memorial Service on the morning of May 30th, held in the First Reformed Church to which we had been invited by Dr. Boere. The Daughters met in the vestibule and marched in a body to the front of the church. The service was made beautiful by appropriate and well rendered music. Dr. Boere preached a powerful sermon on "The Disposition and the Power to Do Righteousness," from the text, "Righteousness Exalteth a Nation." He proved from history that the fall of all the one time great nations of the world has been due to the lack of that "Disposition and Power; and that the hope of any nation to endure and grow lies in the disposition and power to do righteousness as prescribed by Jesus Christ both by the individuals and as a nation.

The church service was followed by a brief service in the churchyard. Mrs. Dr. Boere also spoke briefly of the great privileges which we people of the Eastern U. S. have to bring able to celebrate our holidays on Grounds hallowed by the deeds of real heroes such as those who fought in such a worthy cause as the American Revolution. After the service the graves of 45 soldiers of the Revolutionary War were decorated by the chapter members. And so, inspired by this beautiful service, we move on to another year with the labors to be resumed after the rest of the summer. May Chap-

Other Interesting Reports.

Mrs. Silas LeFever, chairman of the social committee, reported interestingly of the various delightful social events given by the Chapter during the past year.

The Americanization Committee, Mrs. B. C. Van Ingen, chairman, told of their various activities along patriotic lines, dwelling especially upon the naturalization court held at the court house, when the D. A. R. presented each alien just becoming a citizen, with an American flag and manual.

Besides giving her report along publicity lines, Miss Baker, chairman of the press committee, moved a vote of thanks to the press of the city for the insertion in the newspapers of D. A. R. notices and meetings and to the Freeman in particular for its generous reporting of all Chapter doings. The motion was unanimously carried.

The report of the committee on patriotic education, Miss Pettigill, chairman, told of the work of the committee especially as it is featured in the grade and high schools of the city.

History and Genealogy. Another especially interesting report was that given by Mrs. Virgil B. Van Wageningen, chairman of the committee on the preservation of historical spots and genealogical research, which was as follows:

Kingston is only the threshold of a very interesting region of which the historic importance does not appear to be generally known. This is the Rondout-Neversink Valley which reaches from the Hudson River at Kingston to the Delaware at Port Jervis. The road traversing this valley is an ancient highway, first used by the Indians, which reaching the Delaware River leads on into Pennsylvania. During the winter at Valley Forge and probably all the time Washington's army remained near the Delaware while the British held New York the safe island thoroughfare between our state capital and the patriot army was a line of communication of utmost importance. It is claimed that the people of the Rondout-Neversink Valley were able to do, and did do, more than any others to keep Washington's army clothed and fed during the trying period of the war when the outcome of the war was so uncertain.

The famous Dewitt mills are falling into ruin—this property has just changed owners. One old water wheel mill is still doing business near Highland. In the old Spy House in Hurley, Washington received the troops and a British spy was imprisoned.

The Oliver House beyond Hurley was also the meeting place of Continental Congress. In the Butler House is a library of ancient books which the family brought over from France when they fled to escape persecution. In Stone Ridge Washington spent the night on a journey to Kingston with Colonel Wyness while his officers were quartered at the Sally Plank or Sally Fox Inn. The Long Hole House of Johnson's Harpersburg near Kerbsburgh still stands. At Napanoch one of the Dewitt houses still stands.

Port Jervis—modern—was made by the Hudson and Delaware canal. There must have been an earlier settlement here for there is an old fort house left which was attacked by Tories and Indians led by Joseph Brant at the time of the battle of Minnisk. This has been marked by the Daughters.

"Old Trails." Mrs. W. N. Fessenden reported interestingly for her committee on "Old Trails," mentioning especially the old "Queen's Highway."

Regent's Annual Report. The last annual report to be given was that of the regent, Mrs. T. D. Lewis, which is given below:

June 24, 1925.—Your regent was invited to attend the dedication of the "Pilgrim Memorial Fountain" at Plymouth Mass., but was obliged to send "regrets."

October 6, 1925.—Your regent had the pleasure of "accepting" and attending a reception and luncheon given by the Mahwahawagh Chapter of Poughkeepsie. There were state officers and other regents of the "Hudson Valley Council present and it was a most enjoyable occasion—this was given at the new Vassar Alumnae House, a most beautiful building.

October 23-30, 1925.—Your regent (and delegates) attended the 39th Annual State Conference held at Hotel Commodore, New York city. April 13-26.—Your regent (and delegates) attended the Continental Congress (35th) held in Washington, D. C. All of the above were not only interesting occasions but were profitable.

Memorial Day Service.

A special vote of thanks was extended by the chapter to the Rev. Dr. Lucia Boere, pastor of the First Reformed Dutch Church, for his invitation to the chapter to attend the Memorial Day services at the old Dutch Church. The vote of thanks also included expressions of congratulation and appreciation of the services preached by Dr. Boere at the church service last Sunday morning and of the address which he gave outside the church at the time of decorating the graves of Revolutionary soldiers.

While verbally announcing the chairman of standing committee for the coming year, the regent stated that the fall list of committees for 1926-27 would not be ready for publication before the appearing of the D. A. R. Year Book early in the fall.

Y's Men Club in Hospital Drive

The Y's Men Club at their weekly dinner Wednesday evening made plans to attend the International Convention of Y's Men's Clubs to be held this year at Camden, N. J., September 1 to 4. Representatives from all over the country will be present at this convention.

A team of ten efficient Y's men under leadership of President John H. Haulenbeck has been formed for the Kingston City Hospital Drive.

A telegram of congratulations was sent to George Mathews, who had that day departed from single bliss. All the members extend their hearty wishes for a long and happy married life.

The chairman of the evening's entertainment committee happened to be George Mathews but as he was absent the club was left without a regular program but made up for it by calling on some of their own members for impromptu entertainment. William Brady, Doctor Gifford and Jim Scott, with the assistance of Fred Van Deusen, put on a program of magical mysteries. "Doc" Norwood said he thought they were much better than his personal friends Houdini and Thurston.

A large attendance is expected at the next meeting as William W. Brady will have charge of the program and he has promised something unusual in the way of an entertainment.

Time to Demonstrate Claim to Efficiency

A sarcastic old Irishman, the president of a small but well-known industrial company, was anxious to show production figures and he sent word for a brand-new efficiency expert who had succeeded in talking him into the ways of ultra modern business administration. The expert had succeeded in worming his way into a vice presidency as "vice president in charge of personnel." A messenger came from the expert:

"Mr. Jones says he is tied up and cannot get away."

The president drew a breath of satisfaction that the new executive had begun so industriously. He talked 20 minutes and again sent for the expert.

"Mr. Jones says he is tied up but is trying to get away."

The president didn't like this, but waited 15 minutes before trying again. The same answer came back, so he penned this note:

"Houdini gets out of a straight-jacket and handcuffs under water in 40 seconds. I don't expect this from you but would appreciate your getting untied very soon or not claiming you're such a tremendously efficient guy!"

Everts Scored on Depew

Sir Theodore A. Cook in his book, "The Sunlit Hours," tells this story concerning the two American wits, Chauncey Depew and William Everts: "At a large dinner Chauncey Depew was once very much annoyed to find that he was expected to make his oration before Everts instead of speaking later on. So he went and sat down at the end of the room with the idea of chaffing his rival when the opportunity should serve. Everts, whose eloquence was as easy as his wit, began his speech with a bird's-eye view of American history from Noah to Naragansett pier, without a single semicolon. Depew sprang up, at the first pause, and cried out: 'Mr. Chairman, I ask whether we are supposed to sit here and listen to such sentences all night.' 'I am sorry,' replied Everts, instantly, that my friend, Chauncey Depew, has now joined the criminal classes in deploring long sentences.'"

Ears on the Increase

Are your ears larger than your grandfather's? This is a problem to which you have probably never given any thought; but, if you compare your own photograph with some of those in the family album, you will probably find that your ears are larger than those of the last generation.

A prominent ear specialist has proved by measurement that the tendency of the human ear is to grow even larger. The reason, he suggests, is the increased number and volume of sounds, which is a feature of modern life, especially in cities, and the more complicated demands which are thus made upon our hearing.

Indian "Gobbled," So He Shot—Murder Defense

OKmulgee, Okla.—Imitation of a turkey gobble's call, Indian signal of intent to kill, forms the basis of the defense in a murder trial here. Jim Crowell, a wealthy rancher, charged with shooting Willie Brunner, an Indian, testified he shot Brunner after the Indian had "gobbled" three times and then attempted to shoot him. The defense recalled a decision by Judge Parker, Indian territory jurist, who regarded as justifiable homicide the act of a man in shooting an Indian who "gobbled" at him.

POULTRY

COCCIDIOSIS IS FATAL AILMENT

One of the most serious maladies which poultry-farm owners have to combat is coccidiosis, a destructive disease, especially prevalent on poultry farms where a large number of birds are raised on a limited area.

Chickens between the ages of four and fourteen weeks are the most likely to contract the infection, and suffer the greatest mortality, according to B. A. Beach of the veterinary science department at the Wisconsin College of Agriculture, in a recent circular published by the college. He says that although adult birds often contract the disease, they seldom die directly from it.

The disease is the result of infection by a small parasite, known as the coccidium, which is spread in the droppings of infected birds. Beach, in outlining the symptoms of the trouble, says that the first to be noticed is the appearance of blood in the droppings; following this, the chick usually becomes listless; its feathers become ruffled, and its wings droop. Contaminated soil and water are the chief carriers of infection, as are certain adult birds, which are infected, though showing no outward signs of the disease. Such hens are a continuous source of infection and a menace to all chicks that are permitted to run with them.

"No medicinal treatment has yet been found of sufficient value to warrant its use," Beach declares. "Sanitation is both the preventive and the cure," he says.

As soon as coccidiosis is diagnosed, Beach says the steps to be taken are to remove all of the apparently healthy chicks to clean quarters—feed the chicks inside brooder houses—remove all litter from the brooder house twice weekly—withdraw all mash, and feed light on scratch feed, and keep sour milk before the chicks at all times.

Farmer Who Balances His Poultry Ration Gets Most

Laying hens need a balanced ration. This fact is demonstrated by an experiment completed recently by the South Dakota State college poultry department, in which two pens of 25 hens each were fed under the same conditions but with different rations. In one case the hens were given all the corn, oats, wheat and barley they would eat. The hens in the other pen received these same grains but in addition were given a 20 per cent meat mash in order to make the ration balanced.

A summary of the results of this experiment indicates that the hens on corn, oats, wheat and barley averaged 27.64 eggs per bird for the two-months period. The hens that received the meat mash in their ration averaged 30.56 eggs per hen. The cost of the feed was practically the same in both cases because the first pen ate enough more grain to balance the cost of the meat mash, thus proving that the farmer who will balance his poultry ration will receive a greater profit.

Mortality Loss in Baby
Chicks May Be Prevented

According to a report from the extension division, Ohio State university, a record from 800 farmers shows that the mortality loss in baby chicks up to the age of ten weeks was 20.3 per cent. This probably is a conservative estimate as no doubt a farmer who is progressive enough to keep records is more apt to give his chicks better care than will the average farmer. The chief causes of these losses may be summarized as follows: Weak chicks, diarrhea, crowding, leg weakness, cannibalism, coccidiosis and intestinal worms.

A great deal may be done in preventing these losses by adhering closely to the five essentials of chick raising advocated by the University of Missouri. These are:

1. Hatch early.
2. Brood each hatch separately for four weeks.
3. Range on fresh ground.
4. Feed a balanced ration constantly.
5. Separate pullets and cockerels.

To Regulate Incubator

If it seems impossible to regulate the incubator, examine the water and see whether or not it will has the other which causes expansion and consequent regulation of the thermostat. The waters are filled with ether which will evaporate through a very small hole. Detach the suspected water, and shake close to the ear. If the liquid is in it, you will hear it shake, and the trouble is not there. If there is no sound of liquid, buy a new water and save time, money and worry.

Best Feed for Beginner

Chick rations are numerous, and one of the best feeds for the beginner with a small flock is the commercial dried bottom-mash starting mash. This can be fed in hoppers and placed before the chicks at all times. "These commercial mashers are used by many commercial poultrymen with good results. A large number of egg producers who mix their own laying mash, depend on the commercial starters for bringing the chicks through the critical period."

Amateur Standing

"I am convinced," said the college boy's parent as he glanced over the latest report plan for funds, "that whatever while heads to do in life has not yet turned professional."—Detroit News.

British Trounce American Golfers

Virginia Water, England, June 4.
—American golfing prestige, which has been rampant in England since Jess Sweetser won the British Amateur Championship and the American team won the Walker Cup, received a severe jolt today.

English professional golfers playing a team of American professionals for the Ryder cup, gave the Americans a complete trouncing in the first day's play of the two-days match.

of Romance.
Western women often pity the oriental for her enforced seclusion and her lack of liberty; above all for the husband who is forced upon her by her parents. And yet love matches are by no means unknown in the East, according to Dorothy Buck, writing in the Buffalo Express.

Mokhtar-ben-Reechid-ben-Maneour, a young merchant of my acquaintance, was a much-sought-after young bachelor.

"It is all a mistake," said a spiteful feminine cousin. "She is no more like

No great invention ever was the work of one mind, they will tell you at the patent office. "She is lovely," said his sister, "and appeared interested in those! They say she is very sweet tempered."

"She has no dowry," said his mother, "and is almost betrothed to her cousin. I do not think it is worth while upsetting the affair."

The unhappy young man did not know what to think, but eventually got engaged, and remained in a torture of doubt until his wedding day, when he found that his bride was all and more than he expected. Therein is an ideal marriage, though unobscured by those aunts that are supposed to be essential to happiness.

Such romantic matches as this are by no means infrequent, and are usually successful, perhaps because beauty, placidity, and affection are what a Mussulman asks of his wife. But I know of other matches still more romantic, whose beginning lies in a childhood's friendship, necessarily broken by the seclusion of the little girl at the ordained moment, and whose fruition came in an early marriage.

Under the law of Islam a man is not only permitted but urged to divorce a childless wife, and this brings about many tragedies—for the childless wife is often the best loved. There have been instances when family pressure has forced an Arab either to divorce his wife or to take another, and the result has been a tragic wreck. The two, rather than be separated, have been found dead in each other's arms.

Plan Prehistoric Park
Twenty-seven acres of land just south of Hollywood will be converted into a prehistoric park by the Los Angeles Museum of History, Science and Art. A large number of bones of prehistoric animals have been found in the asphalt beds in this small area. In the plans now out, the park will be planted with trees and shrubbery as nearly as possible like those which grew there when the saber-toothed tiger, imperial-tailed elephant and their contemporaries roamed in the jungles of southern California. Prehistoric animals, reproduced in stone, will be placed in this reconstructed jungle.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Mothers and Their Daughters Often Have Related Clothes. Linens Are of New Importance in the Sporting Mode

Now that wash silks are really washable, and dry-cleaning is an every-day occurrence, liken materials have almost succeeded in obliterating other fabrics from the horizon of every-day clothes.

And thus it comes about that just as formerly one's silk dress was one's best dress, now, conversely, one's linen dress is apt to be one's best. Certain it is that among the more exclusive houses, cottons and linens are assuming a new fashion prestige, based not on their practicality, but on their impracticality, and their consequent exclusiveness.

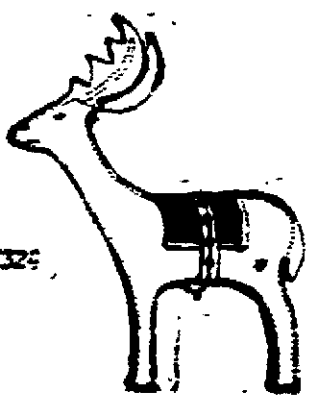

For Country Wear. There Are Interesting Cotton Prints for Mother and Daughter.

Sports frocks that combine several colors of linen, joined with a row of hand-fagging perhaps, are seen in the collections of the haute couture. Handkerchief linen in three shades of lavender, for instance, makes a charming afternoon frock, possessing a freshness which the necessary always-recent pressing and laundering alone can give.

For country wear, there are many quaint and charming cotton prints, though it would be unfair to include these in the category of the impractical. An amusing note is struck when mother and daughter emerge for a morning stroll, clad in frocks of the same material. This habit of dressing in twin costumes has been reported again and again in Paris, and in the many resorts where the fashionable collect. Brother and sister suits are also very smart.

Hand-blocked linen is used to fashion very attractive coats designed for warm-weather wear. Black patterns on white are particularly effective, although colorful models are likewise seen. Parasols of hand-blocked linen are noticed frequently among displays of summer frocks, leaving small doubt as to the popularity of these coquettish accessories. HIGH LIGHTS OF THE MODE

Palm Springs, Cal.—Short-sleeved voile frocks for morning and afternoon wear are prominent here. Many of these are simple one-piece affairs, with self fabric tie belts and with the trimming confined entirely to the collars and cuffs.

Mrs. C. D. Madison wears an effective model of this type in white, which is covered with pintucking and has the collar and the cuffs of the short sleeves edged with ruffles of white organdie, with embroidered cherry-colored dots. The ruffles on the collar continue in a jabot effect down to the hem.

An unusual afternoon frock worn by Miss Lucille Estes consists of a straight slip of rose-colored voile with V neck and short sleeves outlined by bands of white voile dotted in rose color, and a sleeveless coat of the dotted voile with a pleated flounce. A crushed girdle of rose taffeta is posed at the hips.

Afternoon dresses of voile show elaborate handwork, insets of dyed lace or embroidered or tucked net. These are developed also in one-piece effects with short sleeves and narrow self belts. Wide ribbon borders sometimes are substituted for the latter.

A smart tunic frock worn by Mrs. Howard Dunner combines a printed design with heavy woolen embroidery in the same colors. The tunic is of white voile with vertical printed stripes in a black and red conventional design. Wide bands of solid black and red wool embroidery outline the bateau neck and the hips, and the slip of white satin repeats this embroidery at the hem.

Linen frocks generally affect the two-piece type and come next to the voiles in popularity. They also sponsor the very short sleeve, and many of them are collarless. Two-tone combinations are prevalent, especially in strawberry and yellow, champagne and dull blue, and pink and violet.

Both printed and plain linens appear, the former in large, modernistic floral patterns, and in white. Some of the plain linens are elaborated by all over drawn-work or eyelet embroidery.

Irish crochet lace and organdie are used to match the color of the dress, trim a two-piece yellow linen worn by Mrs. John Freeman. The lace adorns the cap sleeves and is inserted at the hips, and in a deep V-bow effect. Filled in with a narrow-voiled collar of white organdie, a narrow line of black grosgrain ribbon adds a note of contrast. (Copyright, 1926, Metropolitan Newspaper Service, New York.)

GOOD EVERYDAY FOODS

An attractive salad is always a most welcome addition to a dinner or luncheon.

Sweetbread and Cucumber Salad.—Prepare the sweetbreads by parboiling and removing all the inedible portion, then drop into cold water to make firm again; add a tablespoonful of vinegar to the water.

After standing an hour, drain and cut into pieces. Cut into cubes half the amount of cucumbers, mix all together with a highly seasoned mayonnaise which has been mixed with half its bulk in whipped cream. When well blended, heap lightly into nests of tender lettuce. Serve with roasted walnuts.

Celery Jelly Salad.—Put two cupsful of strained tomatoes, a tablespoonful of grated onion, a bay leaf and a pinch of celery seed into a saucepan; bring to the boiling point and set aside for fifteen minutes to keep hot. Add half a package of gelatin which has been soaked in half a cupful of cold water, one-half teaspoonful of salt, and the juice of half a lemon. Stand over boiling water until the gelatin is dissolved, strain into a quantity of liquid and tender celery and a pinch of salt. Stir occasionally until it begins to thicken. Mold in small cups and chill. Serve on beds of lettuce and mask with a rich mayonnaise.

Apple Lemon Pie.—Take two cupsful of chopped apple, one cupful of sugar, the juice and rind of a lemon, one egg well beaten, half cupful of water, and the same of cracked cornstarch. Bake in a 9 inch pie in a moderate oven.

Peanut Pudding.—Put two cups of equal quantity of peas and peanuts with enough chopped sugar, pickle to add salt. Serve on slices of orange, garnished with parsley. Serve with a highly seasoned boiled dressing.

Tapioca Pudding.—Cook tapioca and milk with covered water adding grated lemon rind and butter. A little lemon juice added to the warm white may be made from the pear juice will add to the flavor.

Get Thin With Gum Says Science

Fat people may discard starvation diets and other inconvenient reducing methods. New York's fashionable stout women have found an easier way to get thin. Many have reported reductions of several pounds a week. The treatment consists of taking a certain harmless, medicinal ingredient, purely vegetable, discovered by science, which dissolves the fat cells. It contains no thyroid or dangerous drugs. This ingredient acts quickest when chewed thoroughly. So it is embodied in a deliciously flavored fat-reducing chewing gum called "Sienda." Local druggists have all stocked this gum so that everyone can now follow Fifth Avenue's lead and "Sienderize with Sienda."

Question—When a frame building burns down, what is left? Answer—The chimney alone, because it is built of brick. Chimneys are built of brick because they are fireproof. Why not construct the whole building of brick, that is Real Fire Protection. An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure. When you build, use brick exclusively. There may be a slight increase in first cost, but always a large saving in maintenance. Building brick and sand. TERRY BROTHERS CO. Tel. 1674.

VAST BUILDING PROGRAM DONE

Lutheran Missouri Synod Dedicates New Seminary; Dr. Dau Heads First Lutheran University.

On Sunday, June 13th, in connection with the 33rd international convention of the Evangelical Lutheran Synod of Missouri, Ohio and Other States, a group of twenty-five buildings for the theological seminary of that Synod, which were built at a cost of $3,000,000, will be dedicated. The exercises will be attended by thousands of Lutherans from all parts of the country, from Canada and South America. Con-

PROF. F. PIEPER, D.D.
President, Concordia Seminary

cordia Seminary is the leading theological institution of its kind in point of students, having almost 400 men in attendance training for the ministry.

The completion of the new Concordia Seminary is part of an extensive educational program inaugurated in the last two years by the Lutheran church, for which the sum of five million dollars was subscribed in a general campaign.

Dr. Fr. Pieper, the president of the Seminary, has been in the service of his church for more than fifty years. Dr. W. H. T. Dau, who has been on the faculty for many years, accepted the presidency of Valparaiso University at Valparaiso, Indiana. The present faculty is composed of eleven professors and the Synod is being asked to create additional professorships.

Other Buildings Erected
Previous to the dedication of the new seminary buildings, additional buildings to the eleven other academies, colleges, preparatory schools and teachers' seminaries have been dedicated in Fort Wayne, Ind.; Milwaukee, Wis.; St. Paul, Minn.; Concordia, Mo.; Bronville, N. Y.; Winfield, Kan.; Conover, N. C.; Oakland, Calif.; Portland, Ore.; Edmonton, Alta. Can. and Porto Alegre, Brazil. The latest college is to be established in Austin, Texas. During the spring of this year Valparaiso University, Valparaiso, Ind., was acquired by a private association within the Missouri Synod, of which Dr. Dau, of St. Louis, has assumed the presidency. Besides these colleges the Missouri Synod maintains a practical theological seminary in Springfield, Ill., two teachers' seminaries, one in River Forest, Ill., and another in Seward, Nebraska. It is because of these higher educational institutions that the Missouri Synod maintains its solidarity, not speaking of its 1,200 parish schools for the training of its children by trained teachers.

Spinach appears to have been introduced into Europe through Spain by the Moors. The first office of its use as an edible vegetable occurs in 1251 in a list of vegetables used by monks on fast days.

Railroads Refuse Wage Increase

New York, June 4.—Eastern railroads have refused to grant a twenty per cent wage increase demanded by 80,000 conductors and trainmen.

Representatives of the roads and national leaders of the Brotherhood of Conductors and Trainmen have been in conference here for two days. Finally, the railroads issued a statement declaring the increase sought by the men "was not justified," in view of the present expenses of operation of the roads and the wages the men are now receiving.

It was said today that the decision of the railroads not to grant the increase provides the first test of the new machinery established for the adjudication of labor disputes under the Watson Parker Law.

Some fifty eastern roads are involved. Among them are the New York Central, the Pennsylvania, the Big Four, the New York, New Haven & Hartford, the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western, the Boston & Maine, the Baltimore & Ohio, the Nickel Plate, Michigan Central, Erie, Long Island, the Philadelphia & Reading and the Central of New Jersey.

Ambulance Calls Thursday.

Nancy Phillips was removed from the Kingston City Hospital at 47 North Front street; James Souder from the Kingston City Hospital to Albany avenue extension; Arthur Carson from 39 John street to Kingston City Hospital, and Millard Lockwood from 13 Belvedere street to Kingston City Hospital.

ULSTER PARK.
Ulster Park, June 4.—Miss Julia Kennoch, who is attending Cornell, spent Decoration Day with her mother here.

The next meeting of the Ladies' Aid will be at the home of Mrs. E. H. Wheeler.

Night Air Not Harmful
Night air, in spite of the theories of our grandparents, is just as healthful as day air. It is even more purifying, for it is less laden with dust and humidity. Cold air, moreover, according to recent experiments, has been found to be even more health-giving than warm air.

LAST NIGHT on THE RADIO

One of the most uncanny things let loose on the air in many a day was the tests made last night by 2XAR, the test and experiment call for WJZ. They managed to put over a series of whistles' toots that were unearthly and must have puzzled many as to the source or reason.

WDBZ has adopted a set of rules and rates that are of interest to those who want to do commercial broadcasting. Information may be obtained at the Chamber of Commerce office. Any church that desires to broadcast may have its chance provided it pays the actual expenses and uplifiers may uplift for a period of not exceeding five minutes by paying something more than expenses. For the main part of the program, stress will be laid on entertainment of quality and inferior entertainment will not be permitted at any price.

There is a probability that WDBZ will have morning programs in a short time.
